THE REPUBLICAN CONVENTION

Deneen Leaders Control Springfield Body; Republican Ticket

Treasurer—John F. Smulski.

Supt. Public Instruction—F. G. Blair.

University Trustees—Mrs. Carrie Alexander, Alexander McLean, Fred L. Hatch, Lewis L. Lehman.

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 21—The Deneen organization swept everything before it today, putting its program through the Republican state convention without contest or controversy. In four hours, record-smashing time, the 1,582 delegates nominated the above ticket, each member of which was the choice of the administration, adopted a platform and bolted for their trains.

Of the "mutiny" incited by Senator A. J. Hopkins under the guise of a "Cullom movement," nothing remained but the echo of a low moan.

Senator Cullom, himself, as victor at the primaries, was indorsed for re-election, while Speaker Cannon, as a "son of Illinois," was mounted on the party elephant and sped on his way toward the White House, all of which tended to bring solidity to the new alignment.

The control held by the organization was so complete that everything was done by unanimous vote. On the first ballot the delegates adhered strictly to their instructions, but on the second poll the movement toward administration candidates was so pronounced that the others, seeing the tide running so strongly against them, withdrew their names.

On the state treasurship the first ballot gave Russel 689 votes and Smulski 622, they being the leading candidates. Between roll calls the Russel men tried to create a stampede. The band blared out, and two men bearing a banner danced in a frenzy up the aisle. There was much tumult, but most of the delegates yawned and refused to take interest in the attempt to buffalo them.

On the second poll the rush toward Smulski was so great that he lined up 1,124 votes to Russel's 388 before the latter retired from the field.

The tide was flowing still more swiftly when the position of superintendent of public instruction was taken up. On the first ballot the delegates were scattered, Bangs holding 461, Blair 700½, Edwards 185 and Kimzey 235½. The two latter pulled out, leaving the field open to Bangs and Blair, but by the time the seventeenth ward of Chicago was reached on the second poll the delegates were voting almost solid for Blair, and Bangs withdrew.

The rest of it was still easier. Only five candidates were put up for four positions on the board of trustees of the University of Illinois. One vote sufficed to put on the the ticket the four candidates whom the organization supported at the behest of educational leaders from all over the state.

SECOND COMING IS PREDICTED.

Voliva and Dowie will Die to Live Again, Millenium will Follow.

Zion City is filled with prophets and prophetesses just now. Many have heard the mysterious voices and are uttering wise words to the people in addition to performing cures and working wonders, it is claimed. Dowie's especial seeress, Deaconess Hill, has within a few days prophesied the second coming of the Christ in a meeting with friends and neighbors and has predicted the death of both Voliva and Dowie in Chicago together, with their resurrection after three days.

Deaconess Hill is the seeress who pronounced John Alexander Dowie to be the Elijah, the Restorer, and she is practically the only woman who believes in the first apostle still. A page was assigned her in the Leaves of Healing in the old days and on that page she foretold what the first apostle was to accomplish and what he was. She has not lost faith, but the other night remarked her first utterance since the fall of her idol.

According to the tongue of flame, Dowie is Elijah and Voliva is the second witness spoken of in Revelation. Both are to lie dead in the streets of Chicago for three days, she says, after which they will be cared for and resurrected when Christ will appear on the scene in a blaze of glory and the world will end with the millenium.

Before her affiliation with the Dowie clan Deaconess Hill lived on her own income and devoted her gifts to the church free of charge. How she is situated now cannot be learned. She is much respected and is a woman of intelligence and education.

Simple Explanation.

Mike and Pat worked for a wealthy farmer. They planned to turn burglars and steal the money which the farmer had hid in one of the rooms of his house. They waited until midnight, then started to do the job.

In order to get the money they had to pass the farmer's bedroom. Mike says: "I'll go first, and if it's all right you can follow and do just the same as I."

Mike started to pass the room. Jus as he got opposite the door the floor creaked. This awoke the farmer, who called out: "Who's there?"

Mike answered with a "meaow" (imitating a cat). The farmer's wife being awake, too, said: "Oh, John, it's the cat," and all was quiet.

Now Pat started to pass the door, and as he got opposite it the floor creaked again. The farmer called out again, louder than before: "Who's there?"

Pat answered: "Another cat."

Value of Appearances.

It was a case of drunkenness and the prisoner was an army veteran, and when he stood before the bar of justice it was very evident that he felt his position keenly. Just before he was arraigned a young woman, his wife, stepped up to the detention pen hesitatingly and took out of her handbag a freshly laundered collar and necktie which she furtively handed the man. The change wrought in his appearance by the new neckwear was phenomenal. He was placed upon probation, and it is safe to say that he will never be brought into court again.—Boston Traveler.

A Machine of Many Parts.

There are over 7,000 parts in a well-known 24-horsepower motor car.

NEW DAM NEARLY COMPLETED

Big Force of Laborers Working Day and Night on Improvement

According to contract the new Fox river dam at McHenry should have been completed by Tuesday, and failure to do so, a daily forfeiture of $50 was to be made by the contractors to the Fox Lake Navigable Association, but on account of the quicksand encountered, the committee, who have the matter in charge, have extended the time twelve days longer. Large forces of men are at work day and night on the big improvement. Powerful arc lamps turn night into day and a force of forty masons and laborers toil during the long night hours to get the work finished.

One of the most important adjuncts to the dam will be a large lock, which will permit boats of all descriptions, from a steamer to a row boat, to pass up and down the river. Between Algonquin and the lakes the river will be a navigable stream for steamers and launches. The lock will be 15x80 feet, and 6 inches below the bed of the river and is built of solid concrete, with heavy wood swing gates.

The dam is 215 feet wide, and 15 feet wide oak piles are driven in and cut off with low water mark. Flush boards will be constructed on top of the dam to regulate the water supply. The committee, who have the matter in charge, have promised the farmers along the river that the water would not be raised over twelve inches over normal water mark. Henry Kleine, chairman of the executive committee, assures us that the promise made to the farmers will be conscientiously kept and that they need not fear high water except by natural causes.

A man will be hired the year round to tend the lock and boats may at all times go through. Yachtsmen have been compelled to sail their boats with centerboards raised, owing to the scarcity of water, and the progress of steamers has been impeded.

The cost of the dam is to be $4.500, and the cost has been apportioned as follows:

Fox Lake, $2,000.
Pistakee Bay and Lake, $1,500.
Lake Marie and Bluff Lake, $500.
Channel and Catherine Lakes, $500.
McHenry, $250.
Grass Lake, $250.

To the property owners of land surrounding Pistakee, Fox, Channel, Grass and the innumerable lakes of Lake county, the improvement will prove invaluable. By the raising of the water level in the lakes the value of the land will increase and the bodies of water as pleasure resorts will become more attractive.

Parisians in Paris.

How many Parisian people born in Paris are there living in Paris at the present time? According to the last census about 36 per cent of the total population. Paris has the largest intelligent population of any European capital. St. Peterburg has 40 per cent., Berlin 41 per cent., Vienna 45 per cent., London 65 per cent.

Popular Woman.

Connecticut boasts of a woman who hasn't spoken a word in over 20 years. We are willing to bet, says the Atlanta (Ga.) Journal, that that woman will receive a thousand offers of marriage within less than a week after her name and address is published.

Consumption Threatened.

C. Tnger 211 Napel Street, Champaign, Ill., writes: I was troubled with a hacking cough for a year and I thought I had consumption. I tried a great many remedies and was under the care of a physician for several months. I used one bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar. It cured me and I have not been troubled since. Sold by J. H. Swan.

Has No Charm for Americans.

Only two American vessels have entered the harbor of Bordeaux in ten years, and these were private yachts which sought refuge during the Spanish-American war.

Useless British Territory.

No other empire in the world owns so much absolutely useless territory as the British. Banks Land, Prince Albert Land, Victoria and Baffin Land, with hundreds of other arctic islands and lands, are at present quite useless.

For dry, cracked lips, or rough skin, use Dr. Shoop's Green Salve. It positively makes lips and skin like velvet. Sold by J. H. Swan.

Outdoor Pulpits.

London has five regularly built open-air pulpits from which there is preaching, and the results have been so good that other churches are considering the question of having such pulpits built upon the outside of their edifices.

Explained.

"You must admit that New York is a wideawake city," said the man from Manhattan.

"It has to be," answered the Philadelphian. "There is too much noise for anybody to sleep."

Simply Tested.

There is a very easy and simple way to tell if a diamond is genuine. Make a small dot on a piece of paper with a lead pencil, and look at it through the diamond. If it shows but a single dot the diamond is genuine; if it shows more than one, or the mark appears scattered, it is false.

Ink Spots on Linen.

Ink spots can be taken from white linen by dipping them in melted tallow. Let the latter cool and harden on the spots and rest there for awhile; then wash the article in the usual manner. Many stains of paint or medicine can be easily removed by rubbing them with pure glycerin.

Poor.

"Yessir, I come from North Car'liny."

"Ah, the sapphire country?"

"Well, I dunno. It's more of a rhinestone neighborhood where I hang out."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Durability of Concrete.

In thsee days of increasing use of concrete for building purposes, it is interesting to recall the fact that the Pantheon, in Rome, about 2,000 years old, is covered by a dome over 142 feet in diameter, which is cast in concrete in one solid mass.

Prof. Tyler of Amherst College, said recently. "A man can live comfortably without brains: No man ever existed without a digestive system. The dyspeptic has neither faith hope or charity. Day by day people realize the importance of caring for their digestion; realize the need of the use of a little corrective after over eating. A corrective like Kodol for dyspepsia. It digests what you eat. Sold by J. H. Swan.

Wanted Further Instructions.

A woman writes from Colorado: "I nctice in reading 'Vacation Notes' that the English drink soda and whisky. I tried ordinary kitchen soda, and didn't like it very well. Is that the right kind?"—Atchison Globe.

No Short Cut to Wisdom.

Wisdom never opens her doors to those who are not willing to pay the price of admission. There are no bargains at her counters, no short cuts to her goal. "Pay the price or leave the goods," is her motto.—Success Magazine.

Why does the sun burn? Why does a mosquito sting? Why do we feel unhappy in the good old summer time? Answer we don't We use DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve, and these little ills don't bother us. Learn to look for the name on the box to get the genuine. Sold by J. H. Swan,

Flower Causes Death.

The London Lancet notices the death of a woman from a scratch on the nose, received while smelling a primula obconica, a variety of primrose originally brought from central China. The Lancet says it is not the first case of the kind.

Disappearance of the Beaver.

In the days of our great-grandfathers the beaver was a resident of many streams and small lakes all the way from Maine to Oregon. He is now numbered among our rare animals, and a few years ago seemed doomed to total extinction.

Make Pets of Baby Camels.

Baby camels are great pets in South Africa, and are nursed and tended, and even carried about by their attendants. During the first few months they hardly weigh more than an ordinary dog.

Woman Diamond Agent.

Miss Grace M. Varcoe, of New York, has crossed the ocean 21 times as the agent of an English diamond merchant. On each trip she has had from $150,000 to $300,000 worth of the stones with her.

WAUKEGAN FEDERAL BUILDING

Foss to Use Efforts to Have it Placed on the Sheridan Road

A man who says he knows what he is talking about, declared that there is no question whatever that the new federal building will be located on Sheridan road, somewhere between Madison and Water streets, probably in the block just south of Washington street. He went so far as to state that already certain persons in influential positions are taking steps to see if a transfer of property in the nature of a trade cannot be made whereby the Zitt property half way between Washington and Water streets can be secured for the site and tendered to the government at a price which would insure it being purchased.

The figure asked for this property now as put in the bid to the government is $27,000, what seems to be a pretty stiff price. However, these persons are taking the steps to bring about a condition where the place could be bought within the price the government plans paying for the site.

He went so far as to say that Congressman Foss has already pledged himself as being in favor of a site somewhere on Sheridan Road and that he had said he would do what he could to get it located there, his desire, like the others who are promoting it, being to get the approach to the city such that it will look beautiful from the railroad tracks. It is said the promise of Mr. Foss was made to the Outdoor Art League.

Have some of the Southsiders received a private tip from the government officials that the South side location is to be given the preference? Such would seem to be the fact from several statements made by some of the South side's most prominent citizens. As one man stated, "There is now not the slightest doubt but that the South side will get the federal building." Whether this statement is backed up by facts, or whether it is only a guess, time only will be able to tell.

Another Southsider, in speaking about the matter, said that the South side had a much better chance of locating the building from the fact that the Northsiders are all divided, with regard to a site, and therefore much force to their argument is lost, while the Southsiders are a perfect unit for the site, and therefore all their energy, instead of being wasted and distributed over a good deal of territory, is concentrated in one direction, and consequently their arguments are of much more force.

Steel Pens an English Idea.

The first steel pens were invented by a man named Wise, in England, in 1808. Quill pens had their origin in the fifth century. Split reeds were used before that.

Phosphorescent Rats.

A new species of rates has been discovered in South America that have phosphorescent skins, which burn with a terrifying greenish glare at night. In the daytime they look like the ordinary rodent.

In this state it is not necessary to serve a five days notice for the eviction of a cold. Use the original laxative cough syrup, Kennedy's Laxative Honey and Tar. No opiates. Sold by J. H. Swan.

Practical.

Advantage of Electric Light.

Two neighbors were discussing the rival merits and cost of gas and electric light. "Well, I haven't worked it out carefully," said the man who used electric light, "but I save a lot of matches!"

Few Promoters of Industries.

It is an odd fact that South Africa owes three of her greatest industries to Jews. De Pass developed the whaling and guano industries, Andrade that of ostrich farming, and Mosenthal the wool and hide trades.

First Public Bank.

The first public bank was established in Venice in 1550 by the Lombard Jews. The Bank of England was founded in 1693.

Wonderful Dolls' Houses.

The most wonderful dolls' houses in the world are to be seen in Japan. They are completely furnished, have little cages for chirruping insects instead of birds, and queer tiny bookcases filled with dolls' poetry books about the size of a postage stamp.

Foolishness.

"Yes," sadly mused the little man with the I've-been-there-and-tried-it air, "there is only one man who is a bigger fool than the fool that rocks the boat—and he's the one that tries to get back at his mother-in-law."—American Spectator.

Ought to Be Natural.

The difficult thing about being good is that you have to be bad to find out why you should be good.

Women as Poisoners.

In cases of criminal poisoning a woman is nine times out of ten found to be the guilty party. Poisoning is a feminine crime par excellence. The Hindu practice of condemning young widows to be burned alive on the biers of their husbands was a sort of preventive measure against conjugal poisoning.

Happy Exit.

A shop in the East End of London has lately been turned into a kind of wax work show. The showman was heard at the entrance the other evening shouting: "Step in, gents; step in! Take my word for it, you will be highly delighted when you come out!"

Matrimonial Chance.

The Northaampton (England) guardians of the poor have received a letter from a farm laborer, who writes: "I hear that you have one or two widows on the books. If so, I am in want of one for a wife. One that is on outdoor relief would just suit me."

Plans for the Future.

Visitor (in penitentiary, to hard-looking inmate)—My good man, I am told that you will soon be released. Have you any plans for the future?

Strong-Arm Jim—Sure t'ing; I got plans o' two banks and four private houses.

History of the Bell.

The first bell was invented by Paulinus, bishop of Nola, in Campania in 400. In England, the first bell was used in Croyland abbey, in Lincolnshire, 845. Musical bells are a Belgian invention, dating back to 1407.

Invented Moving-Pictures.

Moving pictures were invented by an English engineer as early as the beginning of the eighteenth century. The arrangement consisted then of thin strips of wood on a canvas background. With the aid of wires they could be made to move quickly so that the effect of action was given.

A Mystery Solved.

How to keep off periodic attacks of biliousness and habitual constipation was a mystery that Dr. King's New Life Pills solved for me, writes John N. Pleasant, of Magnolia, Ind. Gen. Buller Can Cook.

It is said that Gen. Sir Redvers Buller, the British officer with whom the Boers had such a lot of fun in South Africa, is an excellent cook and would have small difficulty in securing a good job in any first-class hotel.

Don't Worry.

Let us not be unnecessarily apprehensive. When air ships actually come into common use inventive genius will supply an upstairs window blind that will serve the purpose.—Puck.

In Self Defense.

Major Hamm, editor and manager of the Constitutionalist Eminence, Ky., when he was fiercely attacked, four years ago by piles, bought a box of Bucklen's Arnica Salve, of which he says: It cured me in ten days and no trouble since. Quickest healer of burns, sores, cuts, wounds 25c at Swan's drug stores.

An Infant Industry.

There have been quite a number of coyotes' progeny dug out of the ground recently; in fact, some of the natives have secured as high as nine cubs in one burrow and, as their scalps are worth one dollar each, there is money in the biz.—Wallula Gateway.

What's the Use?

"What a downpour!" ejaculated Uncle Jack to his pretty niece; "don't be afraid to raise your skirts; there's no one about to see you." "Then what's the use?" inquired the pretty one, disconntentedly.

Expert Bowman.

There are a few men in England who still practice archery. Sir Ralph Galwey is said to be the most expert, and it is further said that it is no uncommon thing for him to shoot an arrow a quarter of a mile and hit his target.

Quick Relief for Asthma Sufferers.

Foley's Honey and Tar affords immediate relief to asthma sufferers in the worst stages, and if taken in time will effect a cure. J. H. Swan.

Encourage Fancy Skating.

The governor general of Canada, to show his interest in and encourage figure skating, has offered a handsome trophy, to be competed for next season. The commission for the trophy has been given to a Canadian sculptor, Philippe Hebert, who has lately returned from Paris.

No Escape.

The London Lancet points out that since it costs more to train a doctor nowadays fees should be higher. Already overburdened by the cost of living, we are threatened with an increase in the cost of dying.

Got More Than Adam.

The astuteness of the sex in bargains is shown by the young woman of Long Island, who collected $200 for a broken rib, half an hour after her adventure with an automobile. This was just $200 more than an historic male victim received in a case of total loss.

Charles W. Spalding of Chicago, the former Globe Savings Bank president who served a term in the penitentiary for embezzlement, has filed a bill for accounting with the University of Illinois, claiming that he turned over to the trustees property valued at $415,000 when he only owed $231,367.

Three automobilists were killed and another fatally injured at Allaire crossing on the Pennsylvania railroad near Asbury Park, N. J., when an express train crashed into the automobile of J. George Laffargue, a piano manufacturer of New York City. Mr. Laffargue, his wife and Mrs. Charles Lurch were instantly killed.

Scores are dead in Warsaw as the result of ceaseless activity on the part of the terrorists. Bomb-throwing continues in spite of police and the thousands of troops stationed there. The police admit 150 persons have been wounded by bombs and bullets, and that thirty-one police and soldiers have been slain and eighteen wounded in recent fighting. Fifteen citizens have been killed, seventy severely wounded and ninety-five slightly wounded. Bands of armed terrorists made bold attacks and appeared to have an unlimited supply of bombs. They threw them at processions, soldiers, police and into police stations and vodka shops.

SAFEGUARD RED CROSS EMBLEM

Geneva Convention Urges Its Suppression for Commercial Uses.

Antiseptic barber shops, pharmacies and patent-medicine manufacturers throughout the United States will be compelled to cease using the red cross as a trade mark, if the convention agreed upon at the recent international Red Cross conference in Geneva is lived up to in every detail by this country. This convention provides that each of the signatory countries shall do all in its power to bring about legislation preventing the use of the Red Cross insignia for any sort of commercial purpose.

It was suggested at the convention that such laws be put into effect within five years. When the reincorporation of the National Red Cross was effected in 1905 the act passed by congress provided that no person or corporation not lawfully entitled to use the sign of the Red Cross at that time should thereafter be permitted to use it for the purpose of trade or as an advertisement of any article. Consequently officers of the American Red Cross say that the use of their insignia by persons or corporations which were not authorized to use it in 1905 is in direct violation of the law. The punishment for the offense, the act provides, is a fine of not less than $1 nor more than $500, or imprisonment for not more than one year, or both fine and imprisonment. All dues so collected are to be paid to the American National Red Cross.

At the time of the reincorporation of the American National Red Cross it was not thought advisable to attempt to enforce a retroactive act which would interfere with the persons or corporations then making use of the symbol of of the organization for commercial purposes. Nearly all other countries have carefully safeguarded the insignia of the Red Cross and the United States is said to be the chief offender in the miscellaneous use of the emblem created for the special purpose of protection in time of war to those who are caring for the sick and wounded.

ROOT VOICES SENTIMENT.

Assures Argentine President of Uncle Sam's Friendship.

At the official banquet given in Buenos Ayes at the Argentine government house by President Alcorta in honor of Secretary Root, to which only the diplomatic corps and high officers of state were invited, the secretary made what was cousidered the most important speech he has delivered while on his tour.

ELIHU ROOT.

Rising to tender the secretary an official welcome, and proposing the health of Mr. Root, the President traced the similarity in the constitutions, progress, and success in overcoming obstacles, of North and South America. He dwelt especially on the mutual advantage of closer friendship between the races.

Mr. Root, in replying, thanked the President in behalf of President Roosevelt and "the millions of citizens in the United States." Then he said:

We inherit the right to be interested in the Argentine Republic. From the time when Benjamin Rush was fighting, from the day when James Monroe threw down the gauntlet of a weak republic, we were then in defense of its independence and rights, and from that day to this the interest and the friendship of the people of the United States for the Argentine Republic have never changed.

I deemed it a duty to come in response to your kind invitation to say this and to say that there is not a cloud in the sky of good understanding.

We make no alliances, but we make an alliance with all our sisters in sentiment and feeling in the pursuit of liberty and justice, in mutual helpfulness.

Fifteen men are known to be still alive who served as Confederate Congressmen: John Goode and Roger A. Pryor, Virginia; A. S. Colyar, J. D. C. Atkins, Joseph B. Heiskel and John V. Wright, Tennessee; Hiram B. Bell, Georgia; Henry C. Jones, Florida; James L. Pugh, Alabama; S. B. Callahan, Indian Territory; J. A. P. Campbell, Mississippi; S. H. Ford, Kentucky; W. H. Tibbs, North Carolina.

Ex-Gov. Bradley of Kentucky, in a recent address in Louisville, Ky., advocated "graft" as a study course in the schools of the country.

Jonathan Bourne, Oregon's Senator, represents a new order of things, both in his State and nation. He is the first Senator ever elected by a popular vote. He is a millionaire.

Ex-Senator Chandler was asked by a young woman: "Don't you enjoy going into the country in your automobile?" "Yes," answered Mr. Chandler, "but the pleasure is nothing compared with the satisfaction of getting home safely."

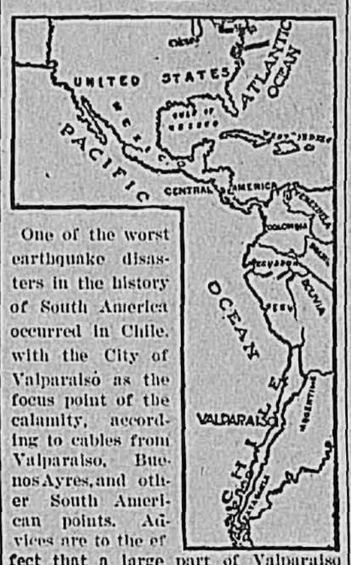

CHILE GETS SHOCK

Earthquake Wrecks Valparaiso and Other Cities.

HUNDREDS ARE DEAD

Fire Follows Quake and Victims Are Roasted in Demolished Homes.

Disaster Similar to That at San Francisco Befalls Port and Capital of Southern Republic—Tidal Wave Leaves Trail of Disaster—Miles of Pacific Coast Line of South America Wrecked.

One of the worst earthquake disasters in the history of South America occurred in Chile, with the City of Valparaiso as the focus point of the calamity, according to cables from Valparaiso, Buenos Ayres, and other South American points. Advices are to the effect that a large part of Valparaiso has been blotted out, with an appalling loss of life and the destruction of millions of dollars' worth of property, while frightful damage has also been caused to other towns and villages for hundreds of miles up and down the coast in Chile and Peru, by the succession of earthquake shocks which wrecked the entire Pacific coast line of South America Thursday night.

So widespread and so great is the disaster that it was impossible as yet to gather more than the most fragmentary details, but enough is known to make it sure that the catastrophe ranks second only to that in San Francisco. As was the case in San Francisco, famine threatens the tens of thousands of survivors of the earthquake.

The earthquake caused such terrible immediate damage that all communication was stopped between Chile and the remainder of the world. The most terrible rumors were afloat in Argentina and Brazil as to the extent of the Chilean disaster, some reports being to the effect that not only has Valparaiso been largely destroyed but that the earthquake has caused sweeping loss in life and property from one end of Chile to the other. According to some of these reports, Chile is said to be a land of wreck, desolation and death from the southern to the northern boundary.

Ships Lost in Harbor.

Following the first shock, which came without warning and was of terrific force, a tidal wave swept in from the ocean. Many vessels were borne aloft by it and hurled high and dry ashore where their wrecks are now lying. Just above the city one steamship lies nearly a half mile inland, her plates ripped and torn by the rocks and her hull half buried in the sand.

The damage to the shipping is beyond computation. At the time of the catastrophe the harbor was filled with shipping from all ports of the world, many of the vessels being laden with rich cargoes. More than half of them are ashore and most of the latter it will be impossible to float again. Scores of seamen lost their lives as the great tidal wave swept the vessels ashore, and for miles along the coast in the city the beaches are strewn with dead bodies and all kinds of wreckage.

The misery of the Chilean inhabitants is almost indescribable. It must be remembered that it is mid-winter there and that the rigors of the climate add to the suffering of the thousands who have been made homeless.

Two Severe Shocks Felt.

There were two distinct shocks in Valparaiso, the second one causing most of the damage. Scores of houses crumpled up like so many card structures, while others were engulfed by the chasms of the earthquake, and hundreds of men, women and children were blotted out of existence. The city became a raging sea of flame, fires making headway in a dozen different sections, most of the city which escaped the earthquake's ravages being doomed by the flames. The fire-fighting forces of Valparaiso were powerless against the tremendous extent of the flames and little could be done to check their onslaught.

An extremely large number of persons in Valparaiso who were not killed instantly by the earthquake's effects suffered injury from tumbling walls, and the list of the maimed and wounded will probably run into the thousands. The scenes in Valparaiso have probably never been approached in the western hemisphere except at San Francisco, the city being an utter inferno of death, suffering and desolation.

Crossed the Andes.

From the few details of the earthquake obtainable it appears that the disturbance passed south along the Pacific coast and cross the Andes at Buenos Ayres. During the night the volcano of Tupungato was heard roaring, and the people fled to the churches to pray for safety. At San Juan, in the Andes, high winds accompanied the shocks.

The shock around Los Andes was severe, and it is feared that the town has been destroyed. The shocks also seriously affected the towns of Rosario, Aranas, Rioja, San Luis, and Tucuman. The disturbance was felt at some points in the Argentine republic.

The earthquake occurred about 8 o'clock Thursday evening, and it was of such tremendous violence that the seismographs in Washington, Baltimore and other American cities registered the shocks plainly. In Baltimore the needle was thrown off the registering cylinder.

Is in Earthquake Belt.

Valparaiso is in a marked earthquake belt. The city was partly destroyed in 1835 by a seismic shock, and many people lost their lives. In 1880 another earthquake visited the city and caused considerable damage, though the loss of life was insignificant.

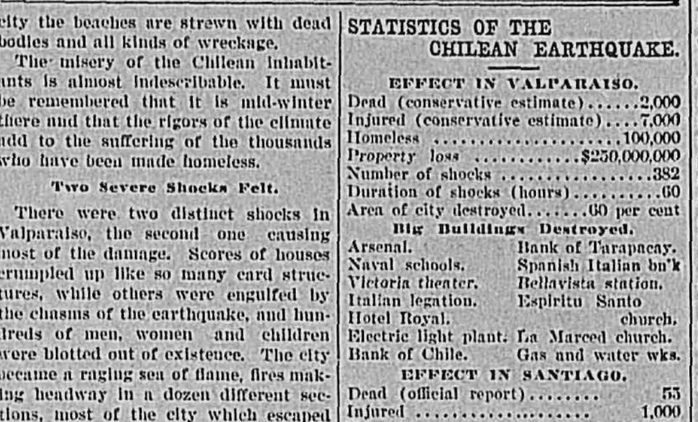

There have been shocks of less violent nature in other years. The recurring disturbances have caused some of the residents of the city to build with a view to earthquake resistance, but in the main the town's structures outside of the business center are frail. In one densely populated section the streets are tortuous and narrow and the dwellings are so built as to offer weak resistance to an earth disturbance.

In view of the visit of the earthquake so closely following the San Francisco disaster it is interesting to note that the formation of the land and the surroundings of Valparaiso are similar to those of San Francisco. The climate also is almost identical with that of the California city.

In addition to the fear of earthquakes, the Valparaiso people are in constant dread of storms, which sweep in suddenly and frequently from the sea. Some of the most violent storms have been coincident with earthquake shocks, and the possibility that the two disturbances are allied in origin is a matter in which science is interested.

Although the main commercial center and the seat of government of Chile seem to have suffered most severely from the disturbance grave alarm is felt for the safety of the inhabitants of scores of other places along the coast, as the whole lower Andes range was severely shaken.

As at San Francisco, famine threatens the tens of thousands of survivors of the disaster, and an appeal for world-wide relief is expected from the devastated republic.

COMMERCIAL AND FINANCIAL

Chicago. The weekly review of Chicago trade by R. G. Dun & Co. says:

"The aggregate of new demands in the leading manufacturing branches sustains favorable deductions as to future activity. An assuring evidence of stability appears in the remarkable strength which characterizes the raw material markets and the unprecedented consumption of supplies entering into the finished products of the mills and workshops. Distributive dealings exhibit a rapidly expanding tendency. The markets are unusually well attended by visiting buyers, and this has greatly stimulated orders for general merchandise to be forwarded within the next six weeks. Transactions in staple goods exceed those of a year ago, the buying being well distributed in the textiles, wearing apparel, boots and shoes, house furnishings and food products. Western merchants are much encouraged in their operations by the splendid results attained in agriculture, and are planning for the largest fall business ever known.

"Local retail trade has made seasonable headway, and summer stocks are well reduced. The forwarding of finished materials and store supplies exceeds all previous volume and is about to be much augmented by the jobbing-house shipments.

"The total quantity of grain handled at this port aggregated 8,285,578 bushels, against 7,780,000 bushels last week. The receipts increased 3 per cent and shipments decreased 54.2 per cent, as compared with those in same week last year. Live stock receipts were 262,320 head, against 297,542 head last week. Lumber receipts aggregated 49,225,000 feet, against 52,712,000 feet last week. Compared with the closings a week ago, prices advanced in sheep 10 cents and cattle 20 cents per hundredweight, and decreased in corn ⅝ cent a bushel, wheat 1⅜ cents, pork 10 cents per barrel, ribs 15 cents, lard 20 cents and hogs 42½ cents.

"Bank clearings, $195,353,078, exceed those of the corresponding week in 1905 by 8.8 per cent."

New York. Bradstreet's says: "Fall trade has opened actively, the first rush of house buyers being the largest on record at all large centers East and West.

"Free and confident buying of dry goods, boots, shoes, clothing and kindred articles is reported from all Western and Southern points, and first and second hands at the East report business of full volume for the season. Other developments have been mainly favorable.

"Heavy rains have affected some lines of retail trade at the West, checked spring wheat cutting at some points and injured the quality rather than the quantity of winter wheat in stock; but, on the other hand, needed moisture has been received by corn and enough has been secured to assure maturity at most points. Only the best reports come from the Southern corn crop, and cotton has been improved by the cessation of heavy rains in the South Atlantic States."

A good season to raise hay often means a poor season to make it.

Fine emery and oil will make a good paste with which to brighten tools.

The grass crop that the corn grower does not care to see prosper is the foxtail grass.

The head may be said to be in good working order when it can be used to save the hands. These agents should be in close co-operation.

A man might as well attempt to drink the Pacific ocean dry as to attempt to whip fright out of a horse. When a horse is frightened it will require different tactics.

The man who never reads is incapable of doing much thinking, and he pits his muscle against the other man's business qualification brought about by thinking, and thus works on the short end of the doubletree.

A boy can make no greater mistake, from the standpoint of his own welfare, than to choose a rich man for his father. Nothing generates snap like poverty. When it is "root hog or die" one generally finds some well directed rooting.

Horseradish is a difficult plant to eradicate, but if plowed out when in full leaf and the plant is prevented from making new roots during the summer, it will go a long ways toward discouraging it. If disturbed during the dormant season only, it will not have much effect on it.

The fairest boss a hired man can have is the one who works along with his man, for he has an idea what work is and how much ought to be performed in a given time. No one who does not work can be in sympathy with labor. The hired man is today better paid than any other laborer of like character.

Nothing saves time better in bush fruit growing than planting wide enough apart to cultivate with a harrow and team instead of a cultivator. When the land is cultivated, less than half the time is taken than by the usual method. This encourages more frequent tillage and consequent increase of crops.

Toads should rank next to birds as insect destroyers in the orchard and garden. The toad is not as handsome as a bird, but has a large omnivorous appetite; feeds under the leaves where the birds cannot go, has neither a bite nor a sting for anyone, and is one of the best friends the gardener has. Everything possible should be done to encourage their increase.

If one peach is two inches in diameter and another is three inches, how much larger is the latter than the former? Just half as big again? Oh, no! That would be a bad guess. It is three and three-eighths times as large. Don't you believe it? Let your boy ask the school teacher, and if the teacher doesn't know, ask anyone that is "way up on mathematics."

It is better for a peach tree to bear three bushels of large peaches than three bushels of small peaches. Why? Because the large peach is mostly juice—water—but the small peach is mostly pit—dry matter. It is very hard on a tree to mature a big crop of pits, but not so hard to produce a big crop of fruit. Thin the peaches severely and the tree will live longer, other things being equal.

In the efforts to make potato spraying popular among the farmers of the state, the New York Experiment Station at Geneva has been carrying on co-operative tests with farmers in all parts of the state. As a result of the spraying carried on by forty-one farmers on a total of 300 acres, the average gain due to spraying was fifty-eight bushels per acre, at a cost of about $5 per acre, giving a net profit of about $22 per acre, after paying the expense of spraying. As a result of this good work it is asserted that the practice of spraying is on the increase in New York.

How to Get Alfalfa Started.

Early attempts with alfalfa are likely to prove a failure unless the peculiar requirements of the young plants are thoroughly understood and the many pitfalls guarded against. It is best to start with a small patch—an acre or less—and to make from four to eight subdivisions and give each a different treatment as regards fertilizer, lime, method of seeding, etc. In this way the experience which would otherwise require a number of seasons to procure can be obtained at the end of the first year.

Propagating Apple Trees.

Apples are propagated either by root grafting or by budding on seeding stocks. If the former is employed, scions of the varieties chosen are united to 1-year-old roots by the whip, or tongue-grafting method. Sometimes scions and long roots are used, in which case the result is called a whole root graft, and sometimes long scions and short pieces of roots are used, when the result is known as a piece root graft. Root grafting is done at any time during winter or early spring. If budding is resorted to, the seedling stocks are lined out in spring and budded close to the ground in summer by the T-budding, or shield-bud method.

Chinese Goose Good Layer.

Often difficulty is experienced in getting the old farmyard geese to lay early in the season, but that may be surmounted if the Chinese variety be more extensively kept. The Chinese goose is a most prolific layer, and the flesh makes excellent eating. So long as the huge fat geese are not in demand, the smaller and more profitable Chinese may be taken up with advantage. Perhaps the best crossbred goose for general early marketing purposes is that produced from mating a Chinese gander with a Toulouse goose, but if a larger supply of eggs is required, the mating should be reversed. In either case the youngsters are extremely hardy, growing and feathering more quickly than any other breed or cross. They should attain a weight of eight or nine pounds by the end of the summer with very little hand feeding.

Angoras Growing in Favor.

The value of grade Angora goats, says American Sheep Breeder, depends chiefly on how well they are bred. Low grade Angoras with only two or three crosses of Angora blood should be worth in Oklahoma $2.50 or $2.75 a head. A better grade of Angoras, say three-quarter blood, probably would cost $3.50 a head. Mohair is worth this year from 25 to 40 cents a pound, depending upon the length, fineness and condition of the hair. There is no doubt, Mr. Blair, about the future of the Angora business. The Angora is already a national institution in this country and is here to stay, and we are pleased to say to you that Angoras are growing steadily in favor each year. On new, wild, brushy land they are simply invaluable and a hundred of them are worth more to clear up a new farm than the best two woodsmen that ever wielded an axe, because they clean it up thoroughly, leaving no live roots or sprouts behind them.

Strawberry Planting.

If you do not have a strawberry bed in your garden and want one, August is a good time to start it, provided you plant pot-grown plants.

These pot-grown plants are runners which were rooted in pots early in the season.

You could not use at this season plants which had not been pot-grown because the pots would be so badly damaged in the transplanting that they could not furnish the plant with the amount of water which it would demand. That kind of plant, known as "layer plants" may be set out in September, but they would not give you any fruit next spring under ordinary cultivation, while pot-grown plants set out in August will bear next spring.

In a bed 10x20 feet, one may grow 100 plants. If the soil is a heavy clay thoroughly work into it a dressing several inches in thickness, of coal ashes, and half a ton of manure, before setting the plants. As soon as the ground freezes, spread another half ton of manure over the bed as a mulch.

The following spring, as soon as the first leaves show above the mulch, pull the manure away from the crowns of the plants, and work it into the soil. Such a bed will bear more strawberries than a family of three can eat fresh.

Insect Pests.

The poultry house absolutely free of lice and mites is the happy exception and not the general rule. One must be ever vigilant and constantly aggressive in the warfare against these pests in order to even keep them in subjection, says Mattie Webster in Poultry Topics. When a breeder tells me that not a louse or mite can be found in his or her poultry domain I cannot help thinking that a thorough investigation of the houses would discover some of these torments hidden away under perches or in some dark corner. Why this doubt of my brother or sister breeder's assertion, do you ask? Well, the time was when I made like assertions, and thought truthfully, but I had a rude awakening from my dream of louseless and miteless houses and fowls. Just as soon as I became aware of the presence of lice a general cleaning was the order of the day, but never since have I declared as systematically as in the times before I discovered the unwelcome residents that there were neither lice nor mites in my poultry house. Whether you know that there are lice or mites present or not, it will do no harm to treat the houses as if you were sure the unwelcome insects were there. Spray the perches often with kerosene and crude carbolic acid mixed, or with some one of the good lice killers on the market and occasionally dust the fowls well with a good insect powder.

RACE FOR ASSEMBLY.

CANDIDATES WHO WILL COMPETE ARE NOMINATED.

Republicans, Democrats, Prohibitionists and Socialists Name Men to Represent Them in Running for Next Illinois Legislature.

Nominations for members of the General Assembly were made by the Republicans and by the Democrats in each of the fifty-one senatorial districts in Illinois Tuesday in accordance with the new primary election law. In a number of districts nominations were made by the Socialists and Prohibitionists as well as by the older parties. In the odd numbered districts candidates for the State Senate were chosen. In the even numbered districts House members only were named.

Following is a list of the legislative nominations, according to reports received up to midnight of convention day:

Republican.

1. Senate—Charles L. Billings, Chicago. House—*F. P. Brady, Chicago; Alexander Lane, Chicago.

SOLONS WITHOUT A SALARY.

In a Few European Countries the Legislators Are Not Paid.

The Norwegian member of Parliament gets only 13 shillings a day, and if the hard-worked legislator takes a day off he loses his pay. The same is the case with members of the Swiss diet. They are rewarded with 16 shillings a day, on condition that they do not absent themselves from work.

To go further east, we find that Roumania thinks her lawmakers worth £1 a day. Sixteen shillings a day is the salary of those who compose the Bulgarian Sobranje, but members who live in the capital get only 12 shillings daily.

Denmark is about the stingiest of all European countries, so far as remunerating her lawmakers is concerned. Danish members of Parliament get but 6 shillings 8 pence a day, but, on the other hand, they have the odd privilege of a free seat in the Royal Theater at Copenhagen.

While the members of the German Reichstag are not salaried, yet the lawmakers of the various German States do not work for nothing. Saxe-Coburg members of Parliament are paid 13 shillings, of Bavaria 10 and Hesse 9.

At first sight Hungary seems to do her lawmaking on the cheap plan, for her members get £200 a year in cash. But they are not so badly off, after all, for a liberal allowance is made into the bargain for house rent. Austria-Hungary's two legislative assemblies cost the country about £160,000 a year in all. Both in Austria and Hungary legislators travel first-class with second-class tickets.

Besides the United Kingdom, Italy and Spain are the only countries which pay nothing to their members of Parliament. Nevertheless the cost of the Italian Parliament is estimated at £85,000 a year.—London Answers.

Still Left.

"Mister," said the lanky book agent, "can I sell you a volume entitled 'What to Do with Left-Overs'?"

"Let me see it," replied the old farmer eagerly. "What kind of 'left-overs does it refer to?"

"Why, 'left-overs' around the kitchen."

"Oh, go on! I thought it meant gals. I've got six darters who have been waiting to catch handsome city boarders for the last seventeen years and they haven't caught any yet."

What They Saw.

"Yes," related the bridegroom, on his return to the rural town, "when Jen an' me was on our honeymoon up in Chicago we got in one of them thar 'sight-seeing' autymobiles and went out to see everything in town."

"Do tell!" gasped the crowd around the post office. "And what all did yeou see?"

The happy bridegroom kicked over a toadstool, grinned sharply and drawled: "Wall, I'll tell yeou. All I saw was Jen an' all Jen saw was me."

Sure of the Size.

Mr. Pierce had been asked to stop at the market on his way down-town, says a writer in the Yonkers Statesman, and to order some things for dinner.

"I want a head of cabbage," he said. "Send it right up to the house, will you?"

"Large or small head?" asked the clerk.

"Oh, about 7¼," said Mr. Pierce, without hesitation.

Viewing the Remains.

It had been a strenuous afternoon for the devoted teacher who took six of her pupils through the Museum of Natural History, but her charges had enjoyed every minute of the time.

"Where have you been, boys?" asked the father of two of the party that night, and the answer came with joyous promptness:

"We've been to a dead circus."

No Fault of Hers.

Happy Him (on the wedding eve)—Darling, I weigh twenty pounds less than I did the day we became engaged.

Happy Her—Well, I'm sure it is no fault of mine that you loved and lost.—Columbus Dispatch.

UP-TO-DATE DESIGNS FOR THE HOME DRESSMAKER

Graceful Lingerie Hats.

The "white linen girl' must have her hat, as well as the rest of her costume, of white, and to wear with such a suit nothing is prettier than the linen hats, like those shown here. Two quite distinct styles are pictured—one with a plain brim, and one with a shirred frill of embroidered edging. The foundation brim and band are of stiff canvas. When made for laundering, cords are inserted to regulate the shirring. For the trimming, big bows of soft ribbon are used. These hats are cool and fresh-looking and attractive for summer wear with thin gowns of any kind. The pattern, No. 1489, is cut in one size only. The shirred hat will require half yard 18 inches wide for crown, 1½ yards of embroidery for frill, and two yards of ribbon for bow. The plain hat will require ⅞ yard of all-over material, two yards of narrow lace, 2¼ yards of ribbon, with half yard 27 inches wide for either foundation brim and band.

PATTERN NO. 1489.

The above pattern will be mailed to your address on receipt of 10 cents. Send all orders to the Pattern Department of this paper. Be sure to give both the number and size of pattern wanted, and write very plainly. For convenience, write your order on the following coupon:

Attractive Walking Skirt.

A graceful skirt to wear with separate waists is an indispensable garment in a young girl's wardrobe, and doubly so at this time of the year. This skirt shows the touch of an expert's hand in the grace of simple lines and its chic and exclusive air, quite noticeable among its less graceful ready-made contemporaries. Plaited front and back gores are set in between the circular sides, making a pretty and practical combination. The material is a firm blue Panama, the bottom finished with a row of braid, which is the only decoration. The plaits are stitched in almost half way down the skirt, flaring out toward the bottom. This is an excellent model for wash skirts also, and will make up most effectively in heavy lingerie materials. It will be found very useful for a school girl's wear. The pattern, No. 1483, is cut in sizes for girls of 14 and 16 years of age.

Labor World

Hustling Labor Leader.

At the biennial convention of the Piano, Organ and Musical Instrument Workers' International Union, held in Chicago recently, more than 10,000 members were represented by delegates from all over this country and Canada. Its presiding officer was President Charles Dold of Chicago.

CHARLES DOLD.

President Dold is one of the most widely known trade union officials in Chicago. Before he became an official of the piano, organ and musical instrument workers' organization, Mr. Dold was business agent of Local No. 14, of the Cigarmakers' Union. He was born in Schlesing, Germany, in 1860, and came to this country with his parents when 13 years of age. In 1875 he made his first application for membership in a trade union, that of the cigarmakers. He was president of the Illinois State Federation of Labor for two terms and has held other offices in trade union organizations.

Labor Notes.

The oil fields near Delagoa bay, in Africa, are expected to prove among the most productive in the world.

The Colorado Supreme Court has decided that the Sunday closing law relating to barber shops is constitutional.

The latest addition to labor's ranks is the United Brotherhood of Rural, Horticultural and Agricultural Wage Earners of America. The headquarters is in Dallas, Texas.

The Irish laborers' cottage bill passed its second reading in the British House of Commons recently. The bill authorizes a loan of $22,500,000 to provide Irish laborers with cottages.

At a meeting of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, held in St. Paul, a resolution was passed to stand by the working girls in their demand for an eight-hour day wherever made.

At a meeting of the Carpenters' District Council, embracing thirty-two unions, held in Boston, Mass., it was decided to assess the 6,000 members $1 each to be used as a defense fund.

The experiment of building houses to rent to members which has been tried by the British Steel Smelters, Iron and Tinplate Workers' Association has proved so successful that it is to be extended.

Butchers at the Chicago stock yards report the dullest season for years. Cattle butchers are working only 25 hours a week, and most of the other departments only work two or three days a week.

M. Clemenceau, the French minister of the interior, estimates that 90 per cent of the strikers identified with the May demonstration were forced to discontinue work by being afraid of molestation by the 10 per cent minority.

Returns relating to the state of employment in Germany during the first quarter of 1900 were supplied to the Imperial statistical office by trade unions with an aggregate membership of 1,221,780. Of these, 12,635, or 1.1 per cent, were described in the returns as unemployed.

The tobacco trust, to prevent strikes and its employes from joining labor organizations, has devised a system of insuring the lives of its employes free. All employes of a year's standing are entitled to name a beneficiary in case of their death, and the beneficiary will be paid the amount of a year's salary, if under $500, and $500 if the salary for a year would be greater than that.

Colorado Springs, at which the home for union printers is located, has offered inducements to the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen to locate its proposed institution for incapacitated and indigent members there. The brotherhood has now been in existence 23 years and has 728 lodges, with a total membership of 78,000 and a treasury of $1,560,000. It pays out about $140,000 a month in claims, has over $87,000,000 insurance in force and has paid out since its foundation $11,500,000 in benefits.

The temperance crusade among labor unions started by Stephen C. Sumner, business agent of the Milk Wagon Drivers' Union, Chicago, has called attention to the fact that the men at the head of a number of local unions and some international organizations are total abstainers, says the Chicago Record-Herald. While the milk wagon drivers lead the procession in this line, five of the seven members of their executive board being total abstainers, there are other unions worthy of "honorable mention." John Fitzpatrick, president of the Chicago Federation of Labor, drinks nothing stronger than buttermilk, and F. G. Hopp, financial secretary of the same organization, is also a total abstainer. P. J. Flannery, president of the Freight Handlers' Union; H. J. Conway, president of the Retail Clerks' International Protective Association; Max Morris, secretary, and R. D. Hogan, organizer of the same organization, are all advocates of temperance and drink only water. John Mangan, president of the Steamfitters' Union, is as strong an advocate of cold water as is Sumner and has organized several branches of the Knights of Father Matthew among workingmen. The Milk Wagon Drivers' Union is known as the strongest total abstainers' local in the city, having 100 members who do not drink intoxicants.

It is estimated that the Farmers' Union has a membership of over 500,000 in the cotton-growing States of the South alone.

In eight years the population of Osaka, Japan, has increased from $11,800 to over 1,026,000. The number of factories has increased by 981.

For the first time since May 1 the 34 affiliated unions of the Boston Carpenters' District Council have not a single man on strike. The wharf and bridge builders' strike for the eight-hour day is not yet settled, but all the men who struck have been placed at work under union conditions.

Wednesday evening a couple of Mormons appeared on the street in front of Sugar's store. They sang hymns and held services.

Rev. and Mrs. Lucas, who have been visiting their daughter, Mrs. J. Turner, of Belmora Park, returned to Chicago Tuesday morning.

C. S. Tyrell, of Chicago, was in town Saturday, looking over the drug store with a view of buying it. A deal was not made as the price could not be agreed upon.

Mrs. Clark, formerly of Allendale Farm, and better known as Aunt Kate, who took up her residence in Chicago, lost her home by fire last week. No one was hurt, but her household furniture was lost.

Mrs. Turner, of Belmora Park, gave a coffee Wednesday afternoon to her friends. About twenty-five ladies and gentlemen were present and a good time is reported by all.

Friday evening G. V. Cordingly, of Belmora Park, gave a water melon supper in honor of Professor Wilder, of Chicago. Forty guests were present and a barrel of melons were enjoyed by all.

Until further notice the mass on Sundays at Blessed Sacrament Mission, Lake Villa, will be at 9 o'clock a. m., except the last Sunday of the month, when mass will be at 11 a. m. Entrance directly across from Jarvis hotel. tf

Notices are out announcing an entertainment and dance for the benefit of the Catholic church to be held at McMahon's Hall, Friday evening, Aug. 31. The first part of the evening will be taken up by high class vaudeville, followed by dancing.

The Lake Villa ball team defeated the Antioch team last Sunday by a score of 11 to 7. Batteries—Antioch, Groth and Cashmore; Lake Villa, Poulton and Sugar. Errors—Lake Villa, 2; Antioch, 3. During the game Groth struck out 7 and Poulton 17.

Lake Villa is once more in sorrow. The lid is on again and parched tongues and throats are fouud on every hand. Monday morning the saloon closed its doors and took on the appearance of a "dead one." This time matters are worse, for the old town pump at Sugar's, which has been the city watering place for years, found the strain too much, gave up in disgust and went dry.

Theodore Hanish, of Chicago, while attempting to swim from Belmora Park to Allendale farm, a distance of about half a mile, nearly lost his life Wednesday morning. He had covered nearly two-thirds of the distance when his right leg became tangled in the weeds and was unable to get it loose. He struggled in the water until assistance reached him from shore, when he was taken on board a boat in a much exhausted condition.

An entertainment is to be given at the Methodist church next Monday evening. Miss Laura Longley, of Chicago, a soloist, will furnish the vocal selections. She will be accompanied by Miss Edna Foster, at the piano. Miss Alice Case, of Chicago, an elocutionist, will recite. These two ladies stand very high in their respective vocations and have been procured at no small expense. Their past reputations should pack the church to the doors. Ice cream and cake will be served in the basement after the entertainment.

When a woman suffers from depressing weaknesses, she then keenly realizes how helpless—how thoroughly worthless she is. Dr. Shoop has brought relief to thousands of such women. He reaches diseases peculiar to women in two direct, specific ways—a local treatment known by druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Night Cure, and a constitutional or internal prescription called Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Dr. Shoop's Night Cure is applied locally, and at night. It works while you sleep. It reduces inflamation, it stops discharges, it heals, it soothes, it comforts, it cures.

Dr. Shoop's Restorative (tablet or liquid form) is a constitutional, nerve tissue tonic. It brings renewed strength, lasting ambition and vigor to weak, lifeless women.

These two remedies, singly, or used together, have an irresistible, positive helpful power. Try them a month and see. Sold by J. H. Swan.

Over-Work Weakens Your Kidneys.

Unhealthy Kidneys Make Impure Blood.

All the blood in your body passes through your kidneys once every three minutes.

The kidneys are your blood purifiers, they filter out the waste or impurities in the blood.

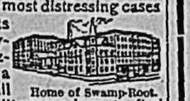

If they are sick or out of order, they fail to do their work.

Pains, aches and rheumatism come from excess of uric acid in the blood, due to neglected kidney trouble.

Kidney trouble causes quick or unsteady heart beats, and makes one feel as though they had heart trouble, because the heart is over-working in pumping thick, kidney-poisoned blood through veins and arteries.

It used to be considered that only urinary troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all constitutional diseases have their beginning in kidney trouble.

If you are sick you can make no mistake by first doctoring your kidneys. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases and is sold on its merits by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also pamphlet telling you how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. Mention this paper when writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

Home of Swamp-Root.

Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

Weak Kidneys Bright's Disease and Diabetes

Use Dr. Shoop's Restorative to Cure the Cause, If You Suffer From These Symptoms.

Here are the symptoms of Kidney complaints: Urine laden with sediment, brick dust in urine, highly colored urine, greasy froth or blood in it, stringy mucous in urine, unusual desire to urinate, pain in passing water, pain in the back and over the kidneys, hot, dry and itching skin, hair dry and brittle, painful joints, legs feel heavy, sleeplessness, dullness, loss of weight, chilly sensations, loss of memory, general debility, irregular heart, disorders of eyesight, trouble with hearing, waxy skin, fever, shifting from one foot to the other in standing. An improper or treatment is often worse than none. Most Kidney medicines get their effect from remedies called diuretics. These are practically kidney physics, acting as cathartics act on the bowels. They excite the kidneys to unusual action, they cause overstrain. These diuretic remedies are themselves the frequent cause of serious kidney disease. Don't try to doctor the kidneys themselves, for you will only harm them. Their only strength is nerve power. Dr. Shoop's Restorative (Tablets or Liquid) vitalizes the nerves that operate the Kidneys. One Man's Evil

By EFFIE ROWLAND

"We thought it possible that this confinement in so small a space might end the matter for us, but if Hubert still lived, it was arranged that George Stanton should conceive some plan of silencing him forever. He demanded exorbitant terms from me, and I gave them. I was mad at that time; I would have given all my fortune to have put Hubert Tenby out of my path, not only because he signified my ruin, but because Antonia loved him."

"What plan did Stanton suggest to you for silencing your victim?" asked Ben Coop in a low voice.

"I do not know this place to which he took Hubert, but he explained to me that it was a lonely spot, and that in the garden at the back of the house there stood an old broken well. This was to be the grave; this, as far as I know, is Hubert's grave. Take help, go and search there, and when you have found him, let Antonia kneel and weep upon him. Though he be dead, he must feel the blessing of her tears."

Ben Coop stood with his hands pressed to his brow and then to his throat. There was a hardness in the recital of this tragedy that stifled him.

"It is well for you to speak so easily," he said, when words would come; "but oh, man, my heart is chilled with horror! What had that poor lad ever done to you? He had loved you; that I know, as all the world knows it. We start," said Ben sternly, as he put his hand with a grip of iron on Gerald Tenby's shoulder, "we start, you and I, this very hour to find the body of the lad thou hast destroyed!"

It was a strange journey back from the North; the officials at the small railway station had looked curiously at Sir Gerald Tenby's companion. But Gerald Tenby seemed sunk in apathy. He moved, he spoke as one in a dream. He was only dimly conscious of the man who sat beside him in the train; his thoughts were always with Antonia.

London reached, Ben hailed a cab, and with Gerald beside him, drove out once again in the direction of that small house. It was evening.

It was a long drive, yet Gerald Tenby never spoke. He sat back in the corner of the hansom with his arms folded across his breast. He had a stiff, unnatural look. He was so quiet at times that Ben hardly knew what might not happen.

A little way from the gate Ben stopped the hansom. He got out, and Gerald Tenby followed him. A shiver ran through the man who had worked such ruin in Hubert's life.

Ben bid the cabman wait, then putting his hand on Gerald's arm, he advanced to the little gate, unlatched it, and passed up that deserted path to the door.

Before he could ring the bell or make any sign, the door was opened hurriedly from within and that same small woman's figure came into view. Once again she uttered eagerly the name of the one creature in the world that was beloved to her.

"Master George, you have come!" she said, and then she was silent, and she drew back, for she saw that it was not her master who stood before her.

"Have no fear," Ben said to her gently; "we are not here to harm you. Let us have a light; we must come in."

But Sarah stood in the passage.

"I was told by Master George to let no one in," she said; "rightly or wrongly, I have kept my word to him. I cannot let you pass."

"Your master is not here, poor woman," said Ben; "I fear you will not see him again for some time at least. We are here and we must enter; there is something in this house that must be searched into."

Then Sarah burst into tears. Covering her face with her apron, she sank on a chair in the hall, and Ben entered, drawing Gerald Tenby after him.

"Dry your eyes," said Ben, "and listen. Rightly or wrongly, as you have just said, you have stood by your word to your master. I fear me it means a great deal. Dry your eyes and answer. Who is in this house with you?"

"Why do you question? Why do you come to me like this? What right have you to come into this house?"

"We come to seek some one who was brought here, some one who was buried here."

"Ah!" she said, with a wail in her voice. "I knew it, I knew it; I told Master George that evil must come. Sirs," Sarah said, rising to her feet, "I am glad you have come, for now there will be an end, perhaps, to this trouble. You say you come to see one who was brought here, to seek one who was buried here; come with me. I will show you what you have come to find. I did not believe that Master George would leave me so long; but if there is any truth in what you have just told me, then trouble has come to him, and I can fight for him no longer. Come with me!"

She led the way along a passage to a room on the ground floor, and the two men followed her, Ben quivering with emotion, and Gerald Tenby stiff, calm, and white as though he were no living creature.

At the door Sarah paused, then she threw it open and they saw before them an empty room save for something shaped like a coffin that stood in the center of the floor, lighted at either end by candles. The windows were closed in by shutters; the room was poor, shabby, old, yet in its way this resting place of the dead had a dignity about it that penetrated even the stony despair that filled Gerald Tenby's heart.

A moan broke from his lips as he staggered backward against the wall of the passage.

Ben Coop loosed his hold and covered his face with his hands; then he woke from his intensity of grief as he saw Sarah fall on her knees by this coffin covered with black, and burst again into weeping. He bent forward and touched her on the shoulder.

"Why do you weep?" he said in a whisper; "what was this lad to you?"

"He was all that was left to me," the woman said, her voice wrung with anguish; "the child I nursed from the day he was born, the one link left to me of all that had once made life pleasant and good."

Ben drew back in his turn. He scarcely knew how to control his feelings. The force of emotion took even the strength from his voice. When he would have questioned, Sarah spoke on.

"This is the coffin that holds the body of Walter Griffith Stanton, my master's brother," she said; "I put him into that myself, I nailed the wood together. Not woman's work as a rule, but when a woman's heart is eaten up with grief, when she is set a task that her soul turns against, then sometimes a woman can do strange work. You look amazed; you do not question. You come to seek some one whom you thought dead. I will show you that some one living."

Once again they stood before a door.

"Though he lives," she said in that dull, even tone, "it is just a flicker of life. I do not know, indeed, why he has not died a dozen times; but I prayed for his life; I worked to save him, not only for his own sake, poor lad, but because I wished to take away the darkness of a great sin from my master's soul."

She pushed the dor open very quietly and stole into the room. Here all looked comfortable. The windows were thrown open and the summer twilight could be seen through them. A light was burning close to the bed on which was stretched a still figure—a figure whose face was turned from the eyes of those two standing looking eagerly into the room.

Ben trod almost noiselessly over the carpet, and when he reached the bed he knelt down and buried his face in his hands. He knelt there a long time, praying wildly, offering up the gratitude of his heart for the mercy that had been vouchsafed for the restoration of this creature whom he loved.

And all the while Gerald Tenby stood leaning against the door, gazing with unseeing eyes at the figure of the man that lay on the bed. Whether he were conscious of relief or gladness it would be impossible to say. He seemed to have touched the last depths of despair a few hours before, when he had turned and seen Ben Coop standing under the trees, like a judge, waiting to give sentence.

Ben drew him out of the room, down the stairs again. When they were in the hall Ben threw open the door.

"Go," he said; "you are free! The lad lives, and all the rest will be easy. If he had died I would have asked his life at your hands, but heaven has been good enough to take away the worst of your evil. Hubert Tenby lives; the rest is not for my hands. Go!"

And then Gerald Tenby woke to the feelings of the situation.

"Where shall I go?" he asked hoarsely. "What place is there in life for me? You don't know what it is, man, to stand as I do and look absolute ruin in the face!"

Ben put out his hand and rested it upon the shoulder of the other man.

"There is no life so bad and black that it cannot be changed, lad," he said. "There is always atonement. Turn and face this like a man. The world need not know the truth. I'll answer for it that my lad will do you no hardship—rather will he be your friend. Turn and face it," said Ben again; "make haste to render up that which is not yours; make haste to give back to the lad that which is dearer to him than wealth—his unstained honor. Be true in this, and much will be forgiven you."

CHAPTER XXVII.

And the next day Antonia stood at the gate of that little house. A message had been sent to her as early as Ben could manage to dispatch it:

"Hubert is found. Come here at once."

Antonia walked up the narrow staircase. It seemed to her incredible that the end of this awful anxiety had come at last, that Hubert was found, that within the next two or three minutes she would see him, perhaps touch his hand, though he might not speak to her.

She made very little noise on the stairs, but Sarah heard her coming, and as the girl stood in the doorway, so beautiful in her simple white draperies, the older woman covered her face with her hands. Then, as Antonia moved up to the bedside, she passed out of the room and left the girl alone with her lover.

A day or so later a modest funeral left that little house. The hearse was followed by one carriage, in which sat Sarah, Ben and Antonia. These two felt that though they were strangers in name, a common bond of sympathy linked them in with this solitary, humble woman, who had played, innocently, so great a part in Hubert's life.

There were many, many heart-breaking days before peace began to dawn for Antonia's heart. There was much to darken the happiness that should have been hers. Not even the knowledge that her dear one was creeping slowly back to health could lift from the girl's heart the shadow that fate had thrown upon it. There was always her uncle's death to haunt her, and, even sharper and more hurtful than this, the memory of Gerald Tenby's self-sought death. This death was hushed up. The world never knew exactly what had happened, and for a time this same world was full of consternation and even regret for the untimely death of one who possessed so much as Gerald Tenby had done. Perhaps on no one did the report of this death make a deeper impression than upon a certain Englishman who lived under an assumed name in the only land where the hand of justice could not reach him.

The man Stephens had found him and boldly taxed him with all that had been done, but Stanton had not hesitated to buy this man's silence. Yet, at the same time, he trusted so little to this that he had gone as quickly as he could to Spain, where, if Stephens had wished to set the law upon him, he could remain untouched.

Antonia and Hubert were married very quietly. At the girl's own desire, this marriage took place up in the North.

"It is a long way for you to travel, dear," she said to Lady Charlotte Singleton, "but I want you to take this journey. I do not feel that I should be married properly if you were not there."

Simple as the wedding was, a rumor of it had spread in the village, and outside the church all the people who had known the bride and bridegroom as children gathered together to give their blessing and their good thoughts on their marriage day, and as Hubert came out of the church with his wife leaning on his arm, the veil thrown back over her face, her eyes shining like stars, her sweet lips smiling, a cheer went up that was irresistible and heartfelt—a cheer that brought the tears to Antonia's eyes and made her heart leap. As they were alone in the carriage together she turned to her husband.

"Oh, dearest!" she said, "I am almost too happy. What can I do to show my gratitude?"

"Love me, Antonia," said Hubert; "my dear, dear wife, love me, and help me to walk through life as you have walked yourself. I, too, feel that my heart is overcharged; but that is natural, dear, for we have passed through such dark, chill shadows that we are almost afraid to greet the sunshine now that it has come."

The carriage drove along briskly, it turned in at the gates of Mill Cross Court, for, following an old custom, Hubert had carried his wife away direct from the church to his own home, and there stood Antonia's father and his sister Bertha, with her little children, ready to welcome them, to say tender words, and to assure them that life was indeed blessed with happiness.

Later on in the day Sir Hubert and Lady Tenby left the North to travel abroad for a time. When they were gone Ben had a sense of desolation pressing upon him that he could not put into words, and all at once, yielding to a sudden impulse, he turned and went to the village. There in a little cottage dwelt a stately, beautiful woman, who was known to be a great singer, and whom none of the old villagers recognized by her new name. Ben came to her as she sat by the fire in the gloaming.

"Lass," he said, "I cannot live here any longer; I am going back to the life I lived for so many years. I have come to say good-by, Liz!"

The woman stood a moment with her hands pressed to her heart, then, with a cry she flung herself upon his breast.

"Go if you will, Ben," she said, wildly; "but take me with you."

When Christmas came again, clear, bright, sparkling Christmas, and Antonia's cup of happiness was complete—for she held her first-born in her arms—a sudden thought came to her. She sent for Ben, and as she watched him holding that small atom of humanity in his great, strong hands she put her thought into words.

"I want you to go to London for me, Ben," she said; "go to Sarah, tell her that a little life here has need of her. I think she will come with you." And Ben's face lighted up.

"I think she will," he answered.

And two or three days later he came back from that journey to London, and Sarah traveled with him, and as she held the infant in her arms she broke into tears, and Antonia knew that, old as she was, this new gift of duty had lifted despair from the woman's heart.

And Sarah reigned at Mill Cross Court, a sovereign in her way. She was supposed to rule the children, but in reality they ruled her, and then, if they could not get their way with Sarah, they trotted off to a certain cottage that stood on the outskirts of the grounds, where lived Ben Coop and his beauiful wife.

"I believe," Hubert Tenby would say laughingly sometimes, "I do believe that Sarah and Ben together regard those children as their property and not ours. I am half inclined to be jealous."

And Antonia answered him once by a question.

"Am I not enough for you, then, my dear one?" And Hubert Tenby caught his wife in his arms and held her pressed to his heart in silence fraught with eloquence; for though years had gone by since the day of their union, their love had grown truer, deeper, more lasting as the years had passed.

(The End.)

A Valuable Dog.

Mark Twain is immensely popular with the farmers living around "Quarry Farm," his summer home near Elmira, N. Y. He and his neighbors exchange experiences and both profit thereby. The genial humorist tells of one farmer who purchased a hunting dog that was highly recommended to him by a man who did not seem particularly reluctant about parting with it. When the dog was delivered the farmer looked it over with considerable misgivings. It seemed shy and bashful and hardly the animal it was cracked up to be. Anxious to give it a trial, however, he took it out shortly afterwards and, as luck would have it, ran across a fox. The dog took after the fox and the two were soon out of sight, the farmer following as rapidly as he could. Finally he met another farmer who, in response to his inquiry, stated that they had passed in his direction. Asked as to how they were running, the second farmer replied: "Wall, it was nip and tuck, but I think the dog was about three feet ahead."—J. Maxwell Beers, in Lippincott's.

Honey is a good substitute for cod liver oil.

Afterthoughts are sometimes best. Woman was an afterthought.

Improving Live Stock.

The best families of horses, whether thoroughbred runners or trotters, were produced from a few selected ancestors, inbreeding being largely practiced. Breeding close to the Messenger blood, through Hambletonian, has certainly increased the speed of our trotters, and, admitting that the instinct of trotting has been more firmly impressed, yet there is a much larger proportion of failures, compared with the success attained, if the fact is considered that the number of the whole is many times greater than that of half a century ago. The form of the trotter, as well as that of the thoroughbred, shows plainly the work of inbreeding, for while the spirit and will force have been increased, it has required an occasional infusion of new blood (not, however, altogether foreign) to retain the stamina so essential to rondsters. The thoroughbred runner of to-day is largely indebted to Diomed, Sir Archy, Glencoe and Lexington for improvement in endurance and speed.

The mutton breeds of sheep are now capable of producing specimens exceeding 400 pounds live weight, with also an increase in length of wool and weight of fleece, while the best merinos can shear over thirty pounds.

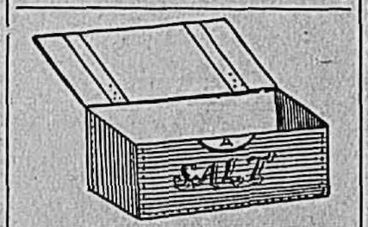

Every decade has witnessed the breaking of "records" among all classes of animals, which is the best evidence that improvement is rapid, much of the success being due to inbreeding, a system that is unsafe unless practiced by one who fully understands the selection of the choicest individuals, their adaptation to circumstances and the objects sought to be accomplished.

Feeding Gluten Meal.

Gluten feed is very valuable in the dairy; rich in protein and something of which the stock are very fond, it can be profitably used if handled rightly; on the other hand there is opportunity to feed it extravagantly as well as to feed so much of it that the cows will be injured. It should be invariably fed with some other grain, and if other concentrated foods are used it is better not to feed the gluten daily. If, however, bran is used to a considerable extent the gluten feed may be safely made a part of the daily ration. While gluten meal is frequently fed with ground corn and cob meal, and fed inexpensively in this way, we prefer to use it with cornmeal and bran, about three pounds of gluten meal to two pounds each of the bran and cornmeal, giving, of course, a liberal quantity of roughage. As gluten produces considerable body heat, and more when fed in conjunction with cornmeal, it is essentially a valuable winter feed, but is best cut out of the summer ration.

Handy Salt Box.

This handy salt box can be put up against the shed, and cattle can get salt at will. The salt will be out of the weather, and there will be no trouble of salting the cattle every few days. The box should be made 18 inches wide, 24 inches long, 12 inches deep in front and 16 inches in the back, so that the lid will have enough fall to shut itself when released. The lid should extend four inches over the box for a cow to get hold on. A notch should be cut four inches deep in front of the box (a), so that when a cow smells the box she will smell salt and stick her tongue in the notch (a) and lick it. By pushing a little harder the lid will raise up and she can get enough salt, and the box will close.—Farm Progress.

Millions of Frozen Carcasses.

According to Sir E. Montague Nelson, says the Engineer of London, there are sixty large meat-freezing establishments in the colonies and Argentina; the carrying trade is represented by 174 refrigerated steamers, with a capacity calculated at no less than 10,000,000 carcasses; and in England there are 28 refrigerated stores in London and 100 in provincial towns for the storage of meat on arrival. These distribute daily on the average over 20,000 sheep and lambs and 4,000 quarters beef. The total importation of frozen meats into Great Britain during 1905 consisted of 8,277,731 carcasses mutton and lamb and 1,271,353 quarters beef.

How to Prune Large Trees.

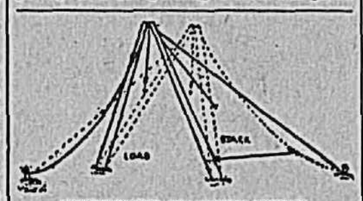

In changing the top of large trees, such branches only should be cut as will insure a well-balanced top. Two or three years will be required for grafting a large tree. It will not do to slaughter all the branches at once. It would be liable to give a shock from which the tree would never recover. Some of the small side branches or limbs grafted should be allowed to remain the first year, at least, and pruned off when the grafts have attained considerable size. It must not be inferred that grafting is limited to the apple. The pear, plum and cherry may be worked in the same way. Neither is it necessary to wait for the old or new moon before cutting your scions. The precise time for grafting is not material. It may be done when apples are on the tree the size of hickory nuts, but an earlier time is preferable.

Insects on Grass.

Numerous inquiries have come into the office of the Rhode Island Experiment Station regarding the cause of the frothy masses on grass and other herbaceous plants and on shrubs and trees. Popularly this has been ascribed to frogs and snakes and named either frog or snake spittle, as the case might be. In fact, it is due to a small insect belonging to the Hemiptera or true bugs, which live inside the frothy mass. Commonly these insects are called spittle insects for obvious reasons, and also frog hoppers, because of their connection with the frothy mass which was formerly known as frog spittle, or because in their broad, squatty appearance when mature, they resemble frogs to some extent. It is not known exactly how the frothy mass is produced, but it is supposed that the insect pumps the sap out of the plants, and in passing it through the alimentary canal mixes air with it to form small air bubbles. There are quite a number of species found at the present time, some living on grass, others on shrubs, and also on trees, both evergreen and deciduous. Most of the species have their early or nymph stage entirely within the protection of the frothy mass. When adult, however, they are found outside in the open air.

Stacking Arrangement.

The two pole stacking arrangement here shown can be readily constructed. The poles are leaning against the two taut guy wires so the fork hangs directly over the load. As the horse pulls on the rope with pulley attached a short distance from the ground the load of hay on the fork is drawn up to the pulley and the pulling draws the poles over as shown in the dotted lines so the fork hangs over the stack when the strip is thrown and the load discharged on the stack.

To Combat Cabbage Maggots.

For cabbage maggot use lime or wood ashes, or both mixed, sprinkling them over the soil and plants. But a new remedy used last year was made from a very strong soapsuds, to which was added one pint of crude carbolic acid to a gallon of the boiling suds, and the mixture made into an emulsion by shaking it together in a tightly covered pail. Take this emulsion and add to thirty times its bulk of water, and use freely around the plants. Of course this remedy would not be practical on a very large area, but for those who raise only a few cabbages it seems to be the best plan there is. The large growers do not bother much with remedies, but rely on using fresh ground about every year to prevent attack by such pests.

Forage and Soiling Crops.

Of the crops grown during the three years at the Pennsylvania Station sorghum and cowpeas produced the largest yield of green substance per acre and alfalfa the greatest weight of air-dry substance. Both crops are considered very satisfactory as green forage. Corn grown as a single crop ranked second in the production of air-dry matter. Field peas and oats are also considered very satisfactory field crops. Flat peas and rape are not recommended. Cowpeas are considered preferable to soy beans.

Bogus Clover Seed.

The clover seed business is being closely watched by agents of the Department of Agriculture. Of 521 samples of red clover obtained in the open market 116 samples were found to contain seed of the dodder, five samples were adulterated with seed of yellow trifoil, a worthless plant, of which the seed resembles the clover. In fact, cattle have been made sick by eating clover mixed with the trifoil plant, while the dodder plant is a still more serious pest.

Brief Farm Topics.

The farmer who broke his hoe handle leaning on it was leaning on the wrong thing.

Two very good ways to market farm crops may be found in the pig skin and in the milk can.

F. G. Bartlett, of Socorro County, N. M., recently sold 12,000 pounds of scoured wool, the last year's clip of his own flocks. He claims to have made $1,200 off his wool.

To combat the fraud of selling sheepskin for real kid a demonstration was recently made in Wilmington, Del., with a view to educating purchasers to buy nothing but the real article.

A cow which will not make more than 125 pounds of butter in a year has no place in a dairy herd kept on $50 land. She belongs to the range herd, where it may pay to let her raise a calf.

As a rule it requires quite a change of the program to induce a man to leave the cornfield to engage in other pursuits when there are so many weeds that need killing, but it is all right to stop to haul off a lot of hogs that have been finished for the market when prices are right.

Roosevelts as Bird Defenders.

Speaking for Mrs. Roosevelt and himself, the President, in a letter to William Dutcher, head of the National Association of Audubon Societies, expresses deep sympathy with the efforts to prevent the sale and use of white heron plumes, known in the military trade as "aigrettes." The President says that, if anything, Mrs. Roosevelt feels more strongly than he does in the matter. Recently Queen Alexandra of England has made a similar expression.

he plow said, "I've my share";
copper whispered, "All is ore";
And the hair-spring tore its hair.

TERRIBLE SCALY ECZEMA.

Eruptions Appeared on Chest, and Face and Neck Were All Broken Out—Cured by Cuticura.

"I had an eruption appear on my chest and body and extend upwards and downwards, so that my neck and face were all broken out; also my arms and the lower limbs as far as the knees. I at first thought it was prickly heat. But soon scales or crusts formed where the breaking out was. Instead of going to a physician, I purchased a complete treatment of the Cuticura Remedies, in which I had great faith, and all was satisfactory. A year or two later the eruption appeared again, only a little lower; but before it had time to spread I procured another supply of the Cuticura Remedies, and continued their use until the cure was complete. It is now five years since the last attack, and have not seen any signs of a return. I have more faith in Cuticura Remedies for skin diseases than anything I know of. Emma E. Wilson, Liscomb, Iowa, Oct. 1, 1905."

The Faith of the Boy.

The four-year-old son of a certain western senator had a very high opinion of the importance of his father. The latter tells how, on one occasion in their western home, the lad came across a magazine in which, by some chance, there were engraved side by side portraits of the President and the Senator mentioned.

When the lad caught sight of his father's features he broke into a broad smile. "That's a good picture of you, daddy," said he.

"Very good, my son."

"Who's the man next to you, daddy?" asked the youngster.

"Why, my son!" exclaimed the Senator, "don't you know? That is one of the greatest men of the world, a man more admirable and more powerful than any king. That, my son, is President Roosevelt."

The lad again looked at the picture of the President. Then, after a thoughtful pause, he observed:

"Say, daddy, the people in the east will be awful proud when they see the President's picture next to yours, won't they?"—American Spectator.

Vines of Piazza.

To train a vine to screen a piazza take pieces of galvanized iron wire somewhat longer than the height of the space to be screened and bend the wire into loops about one-half an inch in size at intervals of about six inches. Stretch each wire between galvanized iron screw eyes, placed in the woodwork at the top and bottom of the piazza. The screw eyes may be six or eight inches in length. Fasten the vine to the loops wherever desired by means of short pieces of galvanized wire bent to a circular form. One great advantage of this method is that the various parts of the vine may be changed in position every season or oftener as occasion requires without disturbing the whole vine, and one part or another of the space to be covered may be more or less thickly covered as one may wish.

Vexed Question Solved.

The two sisters had engaged a servant girl. She failed to meet their requirements. They were holding a whispered consultation in the dining-room.

"How shall we get rid of her?" whispered one.

At that moment the girl appeared at the door. She carried her grip. She wore her hat. In the other hand was her umbrella.

"If you please," she said, politely, "I'm going now. The place doesn't suit me."—New York Globe and Commercial Advertiser.

Words Louder than Actions.

A prominent lawyer in Ohio who was very eccentric always rubbed his hands and went through several other movements before speaking. One day while in court a younger lawyer, after seeing him do this several times, got up and did it, too, in a very slow and deliberate manner, and, after saying what he was going to, sat down; whereupon the older man got up and said: "That young man acts like a good lawyer, but he talks like a fool."—Buffalo Times.

SALLOW FACES

Often Caused by Coffee Drinking.

How many persons realize that coffee so disturbs digestion that it produces a muddy, yellow complexion?

A ten days' trial of Postum Food Coffee has proven a means, in thousands of cases, of clearing up bad complexions.

A Washington young lady tells her experience:

"All of us—father, mother, sister and brother—had used tea and coffee for many years until finally we all had stomach troubles more or less.

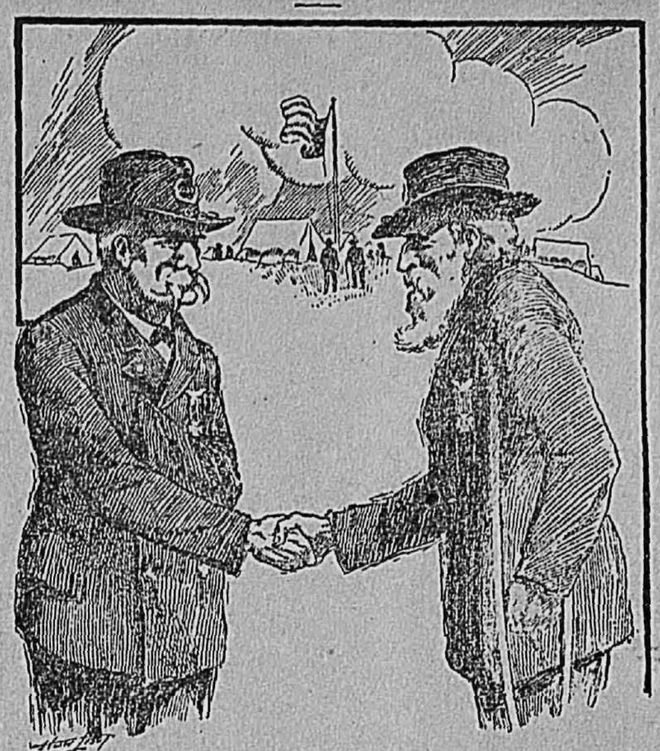

"We were all sallow and troubled with pimples, breath bad, disagreeable taste in the mouth, and all of us simply so many bundles of nerves.

"We didn't realize that coffee was the cause of the trouble until one day we ran out of coffee and went to borrow some from a neighbor. She gave us some Postum and told us to try that.

"Although we started to make it, we all felt sure we would be sick if we missed our strong coffee, but we were forced to try Postum and were surprised to find it delicious.

"We read the statements on the pkg., got more, and in a month and a half you wouldn't have known us. We were all able to digest our food without any trouble, each one's skin became clear, tongues cleaned off and nerves in fine condition. We never use anything now but Postum. There is nothing like it." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville." "There's a reason."

HOWDY!

HEROES OF THE SIXTIES IN REUNION AT MINNEAPOLIS.

CIVIL WAR HEROES.

Annual Encampment of the G. A. R. at Minneapolis.

For the fortieth time since its work was finished and its glory won, the G. A. R. was in line Wednesday at Minneapolis. There have been many parades more gorgeous, many spectacles more dazzling and bewildering, but never has there been in this country one more appealing and impressive than that which passed through the streets of Minneapolis during the greater part of the forenoon.

The parade was a notable affair as such things go, well handled, quick moving and inspiring to look upon. It was a day of pride for the old soldiers in themselves and for the multitude in the soldiers.

Over the heads of the veterans as they marched along countless flags snapped in the breeze and their lines passed between buildings gorgeously decorated in their honor. The plaudits of the crowd were in their ears, the consciousness of glory, won by valor, was in their hearts and they bore with them the knowledge of the world's approval for work most nobly done, in a most righteous cause. And yet it was a parade of pathos as well as a march of pride.

At the head of the column was a platoon of mounted police, the line filling the street from curb to curb, and effectually sweeping away any pedestrians and vehicles that escaped the vigilant eyes of members of national guard and policemen who were stationed along the line of march. Directly behind the police and at the head of the parade proper came a band from Denver, its showy zouave uniforms making a splendid appearance. The twenty-two young women who form a drill corps and are a portion of the organization were especial favorites with the multitude and were given a continuous ovation during the parade.

Next came the chief marshal of the parade, ex-Governor S. R. Van Sant, and his chief of staff, General Fred B. Wood, adjutant general of Minnesota, who was followed by a throng of officers composing the regimental staff officers of the Minnesota national guard. This comprised the entire escort of the Grand Army.

Then, marching splendidly, came the first of the old soldiers, Columbia post of Chicago, acting as the personal escort of the commander in chief. This organization has made a record at many previous encampments, and it is considered one of the best drilled and handsomest posts in the Grand Army. Its showy uniform of dark olive green and its splendid marching called for tremendous applause. Behind the post came Commander in Chief Tanner, superbly mounted and attended by his personal staff, comprising Adjutant General Tweedale, Quartermaster General Battles, Chief of Staff Frank A. Butts, Vice Commander in Chief George W. Cook, Junior Vice Commander S. H. Fowler, Surgeon General Hugo Piller, Chaplain in Chief Rev. Jesse Cole, Inspector General M. J. Cummings, and Judge-Advocate General Charles A. Clark.

On the preceding day the Grand Army visitors devoted themselves to regimental reunions, sight-seeing and receptions given by the Ladies of the Grand Army, the Women's Relief Corps and other auxiliary organizations, all of which kept open house. The feature of the evening was a large camp fire, which packed the Auditorium to its utmost capacity. Addresses were made by Governor Johnson, Commander in Chief Tanner, R. B. Brown of Zanesville, Ohio, a candidate for commander, and a number of others. An address of welcome was made to every prominent organization of national scope now attending the encampment.

FIND STOLEN GEMS IN SALVAGE.

St. Louis World's Fair Laborer Uncovers Jewels

Acting under instructions cabled from England, John P. O'Brien, a laborer employed in the wrecking of the world's fair buildings at St. Louis, has unearthed an alligator bag containing jewels valued at $50,000, which were stolen from Mr. and Mrs. P. Henry Clayton of Devonshire, England, during a visit to the Louisiana Purchase Exposition two years ago.

The jewels were stolen from a trunk and they were not missed until the Claytons had returned to England after a tour around the world. They then had no means of knowing where the jewels had been stolen. About a month ago a Hindoo servant who had been in their employ during their trip was fatally injured by an elephant in India and on his deathbed confessed that he stole the jewels while in St. Louis. He said that he became alarmed and, fearing detection, had dropped them into a hole in the wall of the Manufacturers' building. Later he again wished to secure the gems, but on returning to the place he had secreted them could not reach the bottom of the space between the plaster and the side of the building. Fearing to make any inquiries or ask assistance, the Hindoo departed from St. Louis with the Claytons, leaving the jewels in their hiding place.

O'Brien was generously rewarded and was also employed by Mr. Clayton as his personal attendant.

HISTORY IS 1,000 YEARS OLDER.

Prof. James H. Breasted Tells of New Discovery in Nile Valley.

One thousand years has been added to the authentic history of the world by Prof. James H. Breasted of the University of Chicago, who has just returned from an expedition to the Upper Nile.

The professor and his associates discovered that the calendar was begun in 4241 B. C. and an elaborate article in the current issue of the Biblical World tells all about it.

In the period from 140-141 to 143-144 A. D. the calendar coincided with the seasons and the rising of the Sothis took place on the first day of the calendar year. An entire revolution was completed at that time.

"That revolution must have begun 1,460 years earlier—that is, in 1320 B. C.," says Prof. Breasted. "The next earlier revolution must have begun in 2780 B. C.—that is: at about the beginning of the age at which we are first able to observe contemporary indications of the shift.

"This carries us 1,460 years back of their coincidence in the old kingdom—that is, the calendar was introduced in the middle of the forty-third century B. C. (4241 B. C.). This is the oldest fixed date in history."

SCHOOLS AND COLLEGES

Prof. Gregory of the Yale geological department says the San Francisco earthquake will be repeated with universal disastrous results.

Dr. Albert Ernest Jenks, recently chief of the ethnological survey of the Philippines, is to be assistant professor of sociology at the University of Minnesota.

Dr. Walter Volz, lecturer on zoology in the University of Berne, will head an exploring party that is to be sent into the practically unknown hinterland of Liberia.

Educators and the public in general are showing much interest in the recent opening of the Oread school of agriculture, manufactures and commerce, which occupies 4,000 acres of land some eighteen miles from Baltimore, Md. Its founder and head is Henry D. Perky. From each State two students will be admitted to work their way through, but the number of pay students is unlimited. All will be trained in actual cultivation and management of farms.

Glenarvoir Behymer of Los Angeles, Cal., is one of the youngest students ever graduated from a law school, having taken his degree at 10. He will have to wait two years before he can be admitted to the bar of his State.

Under the guidance of President Butler of Columbia 500 British teachers will visit this country and Canada during the next school year. This visit has been planned by Sir Alfred Mosely, whose visiting commission in 1903 found that our women teachers were making American youth effeminate and that they were underpaid.

HIGH PRICES OF CHAIRS.

Dozen of Louis XIV.'s Day Recently Sold for $100,000.

The value of chairs is strictly relative. Enormous prices have been paid for chairs in recent years, notably $100,000 for a set of half a dozen Louis XIV chairs, upholstered in Gobelin tapestry, which were originally made for Marie Antoinette. Even this price, by the way, was exceeded by the sums paid for three of the Hamilton palace tables, one of which brought $30,000.

A most valuable and historically interesting suite of furniture is that which more than a century ago was presented by Warren Hastings to Tippoo Sahib and which was purchased at the Londesborough sale for $5,000. The suite consists of a card table, a sofa, two small cabinets and four armchairs, all of solid ivory most exquisitely carved. But probably the most costly chair in the world is one of the many treasures of the shah of Persia. It is of solid gold, thickly incrusted with diamonds, rubies, pearls and sapphires, and its value is estimated at $500,000. In the House of Commons at Westminster are two armchairs which once belonged to Gladstone, and one of which was his favorite seat when at Downing street.

A short time ago a romantic story was told in the French papers of two dilapidated armchairs which were sold among the effects of a Mme. Borg, a widow, who died at Dellys, an Algerian seaport town. The widow was reputed to be rich, but a thorough search of her rooms failed to disclose any of her hoardings, and it was assumed by her relatives that she had died practically penniless.

Not long after the sale of her furniture, however, it was observed that the purchaser of the chairs, a Spanish stevedore named Perez, ceased to work and began to walk about in fine clothes, to purchase land and houses and generally gave evidence of having come into a fortune. Suspicion being aroused, Perez was arrested, and now stands accused of having appropriated to his own use the old lady's fortune of at least $20,000, which had been concealed by her in the dilapidated armchairs.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

COULD NOT KEEP UP.

Broken Down, Like Many Another Woman, with Exhausting Kidney Troubles.

Mrs. A. Taylor, of Wharton, N. J., says: "I had kidney trouble in its most painful and severe form, and the torture I went through now seems to have been almost unbearable. I had backache, pains in the side and loins, dizzy spells and hot, feverish headaches. There were bearing-down pains, and the kidney secretions passed too frequently, and with a burning sensation. They showed sediment. I became discouraged, weak, languid and depressed, so sick and weak that I could not keep up. As doctors did not cure me I decided to try Doan's Kidney Pills, and with such success that my troubles were all gone after using eight boxes, and my strength, ambition and general health is fine."

A Curious Silk.

Sicily supplies a curious silk which is spun by the pulna, a Mediterranean shell-fish which has a little tube at the end of its tongue. Out of this tube, spider-fashion, or silkworm-fashion, it spins a silk thread, with which it fastens itself on any rock it fancies. When the pulna moves its silken cable remains behind. This cable, which is called byssus, the Sicilian fishermen gather. Byssus weaves into the softest and shiniest of fabrics, but it it very rare and expensive.

Where It Snows in Summer.

Snow, it appears, only falls in the Antarctic in summer, and on those rare occasions at other seasons when the wind blows almost due south. And, strange to say, these south winds are warm winds, raising the temperature to fifty or sixty degrees Fahrenheit. They seem akin to the snow-melting Fohn winds of the Alps.

THE ANTIOCH NEWS.

VOL. XX. ANTIOCH, ILLINOIS, THURSDAY, AUGUST 23, 1906. NO. 1

MAN'S BODY FOUND IN SPRING

Remains of Frank Kingman Found in a Spring on His Farm

The town of Salem, Wis., and in fact the entire Kenosha county, was shocked Wednesday afternoon of last week when it was reported that the lifeless remains of Frank Kingman, one of the best known farmers of the town, had been found in the big spring southeast of the barn on the Kingman farm. The manner of the death of the well known farmer and politician is shrouded in mystery but it is thought that he had gone to the spring to get a drink and while kneeling over the water he was seized with heart disease and died, the lifeless remains falling into the water. Physicians who examined the remains later in the afternoon stated that it was evident that Mr. Kingman had not died from drowning.

Mr. Kingman had been in bad health for some time and several times during the last few months he had been seized with heart disease and dizziness. On Wednesday, however, he seemed to be in good spirits and he had been about the farm during the morning and had eaten a hearty dinner at noon. Just after dinner, as was his custom, Mr. Kingman walked down to get a drink. His dog trotted along after him and a boy who had been playing about the spring noticed him go to the spring and drink. The boy thought nothing more of the incident. A few minutes later the attention of the boy was attracted by the howling of the dog and going to the spring the boy discovered that the faithful animal was attempting to give warning of the peril of his master. The body of Kingman was then immersed in the water. As soon as possible the men about the farm were summoned and the body was soon removed from the spring and taken to the house.

Efforts to revive the man were futile, and physicians who were summoned declared that he had died instantly from heart disease. No inquest over the remains was held. The spring in which the body was found is one of the largest in the county, and it was used to supply water for the farm. It is stated that the water in the middle of the spring is more than forty feet deep, but the water where the body was found was comparatively shallow.

The funeral was held from the late residence of the deceased Friday afternoon, and the interment was in the Kingman lot at the cemetery at Trevor.

The death of Frank Kingman marks the passing of a man who has been actively connected with the history of the county. Mr. Kingman was about fifty-five years of age. He was the son of the late Ebenezer W. Kingman, one of the pioneer settlers of the town of Salem, and he was born on the farm on which he died. Mr. Kingman was a Democrat, and had been prominent in the leadership of the party in the county. He had been town chairman of the town of Salem for many terms, and had held other minor offices. He is survived by a widow, and by his aged mother, who made her home with him.

TWO BOYS NEAR DROWNING.

Get Beyond Depth and are Rescued After Going Down the Third Time.

The steward on the H. E. Overstreet dredge, in charge of the operations at the naval training station harbor, proved himself the hero in a drowning episode at the station Saturday in which two lives of children might have been offered in sacrifice. The two small sons of the caretaker on the grounds, aged 8 and 12 years, respectively, were playing in the water and one got beyond his depth into a spot where the dredge had been working and where the water was twelve feet deep. This was the younger one.

The elder realized his brother's danger and pluckily struck out to save him with the result that he too was sinking, barely having the presence of mind to call for aid. The steward came on the scene and at once went after the small boys who were sinking rapidly now. He brought the elder to the dredge first and then went after the younger, who had sunk for the third time and was already down. The steward dove and in some manner got the boy's arm under his own, drawing him to the surface, black in the face and near death. He brought him to the dredge and both were soon restored to consciousness.

At the time the boys were in the midst of their trouble and the elder was going under in his efforts to affect the rescue of his brother, a small boat put out to save them, but the steward on the dredge saw that it would never reach them in time, so he dove off and got the elder. He traced the younger, who had sunk for the third time, by the bubbles that arose to the surface.

The steward's name is French and the two boys are Freddie and Willie, sons of Peter Yde.

WOODMEN INITIATE FIFTY

Great Cermony Saturday Evening Many Guests Entertained.

In the presence of five hundred, fifty candidates were received into Lake Camp, Modern Woodmen of America, at the Battery C armory on Spring street on Saturday night and Woodmen generally agree that the celebration accompanying the rites of adoption was the biggest ever undertaken in Waukegan Woodcraft.

At seven o'clock, a brass band heading a delegation of 200 Woodmen marched to the Northwestern depot and met a delegation from Englewood, accompanied by the uniformed Englewood team. Englewood joined the line of march and to military music the procession passed up Washington to Genesee, Genesee to Madison and down Madison to the armory.

Here the initiatory services took place. Camps in attendance were Waukegan, Kenosha, with its uniformed team, Somers, Libertyville, Grayslake, those of the north shore towns, Joliet and some from Michigan. Distinguished guests were State Deputy Dyer, Supreme Deputy Harris, Deputy Rheaming and the officers of Englewood camp.

Englewood camp performed the work and did its task well. This part of the program was followed by general entertainment features, among which were a sparring match between the Terrible Swede and the Wild Irishman, a splendid drill by the Kenosha uniformed drill team, a talk by Deputy Dyer, music by the cowboy pianist, Ed Burns, and an informal spread.

Somers invited Lake Camp to participate in its Labor Day fete and Kenosha extended an informal invitation to take part in an event like that of Saturday night to take place in October.

POLICE HOT AFTER MURDERER

Think Murderer of Clifford L. Smith is Found at Enid, Oklahoma

Has John Bradly the murdeter of Clifford L. Smith of Libertyville, at Kenosha been taken?

This is the question at the Kenosha sheriff's office, for sheriff Veitch has received a letter from sheriff Charles Cambell, at Enid, Okla. stating that a man supposed to be Bradley was in Enid Oklahoma and that the officials had him under guard pending word from Kenosha officials.

Sheriff Veitch at once wired a description of Bradley to the Oklhoma sheriff and asked that he at once be communicated with in regard to the case. A warrant charging Bradley with murder in the first degree is now in the hands of Sheriff Veitch and it is possible that he will leave in a short time for Enid to make a personal investigation of the man supposed to be Bradley.

It is thought that the man must have betrayed himself, as no card containing a description of Bradley had been sent to Oklahoma. Bradley is wanted in Kenosha on a charge of wanton murder of Clifford L. Smith, a contractor, at a road near Berryville, north of Kenosha, on the morning of June 27. Smith was shot down in cold blood, and the murderer, after waiting about the scene of the crime for several hours and talking with men about the murder, managed to escape. As soon as possible the detectives were placed on the trail of the murderer but he managed to escape. It was thought that he had gone to the wheat fields of the northwest to hide himself, but letters sent to officials in that part of the country failed to bring any responses and the letter received from Enid is the first indication of the capture of Bradley.

The officials have looked up the career of the murderer and have found out that he came from the south and had formerly worked in NewOrleans and other southern cities. As it was thought possible that he had returned to some of his old haunts letters were sent to those places, seeking the man but they failed to bring any results. It is now seen that Bradley was to wise for the officials and that he decided to go to some new place where he was unknown. Enid is one of the largest towns in Oklahoma and it is a gathering place for the rougher element of the southwest.

The relatives of Smith have been urging the officials of Kenosha county to take every step in their power to secure the arrest and punishment of Bradley, and there is no doubt but that the clue will be followed just as long as it leads towards the guilty man.

VIOLATING AN ORDINANCE

"Chronic Kicker" Calls Attention to a Nuisance that Exists in the Village

Editor News—As a chronic kicker, I claim the privilege of calling the attention of our village trustees to the conditions of the main street and adjoining alleys in our village. By passing along on the sidewalks one cannot help noticing the refuse and dirt thrown in some of the alleys, especially next to some of our leading merchants places of business.

This refuse consists of spoiled fruit, old peach baskets with contents, pieces of boxes, old pieces of gunny sacks, etc., and is the cause of accumulating a lot of filth, accompanied by the inevitable amount of flies. Some of this material has even been seen thrown into the middle of the street.

There is a village ordinance against such public nuisance, and if any one can break such ordinance to the danger of the health of our people without being called to account, the writer thinks it is time some one entered an emphatic protest, if our street and alley committee cannot remedy the existing evil. A Chronic Kicker.

EXTREMES IN MODERN COSTUME

Woman's Dress Extravagant and Immodest Says Writer.

It has gone beyond extravagance in women's clothes. It has come into debauchery. The dress habit is ruining more homes now than the drink habit. Ten minutes in a fashionable dressmaker's establishment to-day costs the husband more money than ten nights in a barroom did a decade ago. There are hundreds of women in New York who spend more than $10,000 a year on dress.

The woman who might have dared to walk upper Broadway of a summer's afternoon, ten years ago, wearing a 1906 waist so thin and transparent that a lace curtain would be opaque beside it, would have excited the scorn and disgust of her sex. Today she vies with her sisters as to who shall be the most expert in the art of heightening the effect of exposure by a shadow of concealment.—N. Y. Press.

Consumption Threatened.

C. Tnger 211 Mapel Street, Champaign, Ill., writes: I was troubled with a hacking cough for a year and I thought I had consumption. I tried a great many remedies and was under the care of a physician for several months. I used one bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar. It cured me and I have not been troubled since. Sold by J. H. Swan.

A Watermelon Jag.

"I am only just recovering from that watermelon jag," said the tired man. "Don't know what a watermelon jag is? This is how it is done: You take a ripe watermelon, plug it, take out the plug, open a quart bottle of champagne and pour it in. Put the plug back again and leave it on ice for half a day.

"Take four bites of the watermelon then," he finished sadly, "and pass away."

For dry, cracked lips, or rough skin, use Dr. Shoop's Green Salve. It positively makes lips and skin like velvet. Sold by J. H. Swan.

STABBED BY FELLOW WORKMAN

Roscoe Siver Former Antioch Man Stabbed at Kenosha.

Roscoe Siver, a teamster employed by the Peter Fisher Jr., Co., is confined to his room at 262 Park street Kenosha, suffering with two bad knife wounds in his side and back and John Burk, another teamster employed by the same company occupies a cell at the county jail charged with assault with intent to do great bodily harm.

The cutting affray which occurred on Market street late Friday afternoon, caused great excitement and it was at first reported that Siver had been murdered. Burk was captured in Racine three hours after the cutting and admitted his part in the affray when taken to Kenosha just before midnight. He declares that he struck in self defense and alleged that the trouble grew out of the fact that he refused to join the teamsters union of the city. This fact is denied by Siver and by other members of the union who witnessed the cutting and they declare the act of Burk was entirely inexcusable.

Siver is resting easy but the physicians cannot yet tell what the outcome of his injuries may be. His escape from death was a narrow one. One of the blows from the knife pierced his right side and struck a rib and this probably saved his life. The other cut from the knife is in the back, near the spine.

CHOIR BOYS GET IN TROUBLE

St. Martin's Singers, of Austin, are Therefore Sent Back to Chicago

The two weeks' outing of the twenty choir boys of St. Martin's Episcopal church of Austin, all of whom are sons of prominent residents of the suburb, was cut short Saturday when Mrs. G. L. Getis, proprietor of the Lake Shore house at Crystal Lake, Ill., ordered them out of her house because of their pranks.

Here are some of the tricks played by the choir boys, according to Mrs. Getis:

Threw apples through the windows of the hotel.

Disfigured the walls of the rooms of the hostelry by throwing decayed fruit against them.

Tied up all the bedding they could find into hard knots.

Removed the furniture from one room to the other, creating great confusion and annoyance.

Carried two calves to the upper floors of the hotel and turned the animals loose, creating a panic among the guests.

The boys had arranged with Mrs. Getis to remain two weeks and all arrived there on Monday. All went well the first day, but as soon as the choir boys got their bearings the trouble began.

According to Mrs. Getis, the boys began their escapades by throwing fruit through the windows of the rooms.

When this was discovered the boys promised "to be good," but the same day the bedding in various rooms was found to have been tied up in knots so hard that it was almost impossible to loosen them. In this manner good bedspreads, sheets and blankets were badly damaged.

Tiring of this amusement, the boys annoyed the guests by changing the furniture in the rooms. All this might have been borne by the hotel management, but when they carried two calves into the hotel and turned the animals loose on the upper floors, then Mrs. Getis gave them notice to quit.

The calves ran up and down the hallways in terror, creating a panic among the guests. Several nervous women fainted in the excitement and before the calves were captured and removed, Mrs. Getis rounded up the choir boys and ordered them to leave the house. The boys refused to go, whereupon Mrs. Getis declined to give them their meals and rather than be starved out, the lads returned to their homes.

The boys declare that the affair has been greatly overdrawn, but they admit that "some jokes" were played by a few during their stay at the hotel against the protests of the majority. This does not coincide with Mrs. Getis' version of the affair.

TWINS ALWAYS DRESSED ALIKE

No Wonder Daughters of Mrs. Ogden Mills Attract Attention.

London is greatly interested in "the Mills twins," daughters of Mrs. Ogden Mills and nieces of the American ambassadress. Separately these two girls would not attract any particular attention, but together and invariably dressed alike, from the tips of their toes to their very Parisian hats, everyone stares at them and everyone asks who they are. Ever since they were born Mrs. Ogden Mills has insisted that they shall be dressed alike to the minutest detail. Each of these girls has the same set of friends, and no one ever thinks of giving a present to one without also presenting the same to the other. Their maids are also twin sisters and exceedingly alike, and they, too, are dressed exactly the same. Their pets are always of the same family; for instance, their favorites, two fox terriers, are brothers, while their little Japanese spaniels are sisters. For matrimonial purposes, we assume, only twins need apply.

All the Difference.

Domestic Dialogue Which Betrays Laxity on Both Sides of the House.

"What did you do with my pocket knife when you 'finished' using it? asked a young man of his wife as they stepped from a street car returning from Swope park yesterday.

A look of consternation spread over the wife's face as she replied:

"Oh! I'm so awfully sorry. I left it sticking in the tree after we ate our luncheon. We were in such a hurry to catch a car, you know."

"You probably hold the record for absent-mindedness," retorted the half angry husband. Just then she caught him wiping the perspiration from his brow with a paper napkin which he had placed in his pocket instead of his handkerchief. He had left the handkercief lying on the grass.

QUALITIES THAT MAKE A LADY

Idea of Charles Dana Gibson Very Near the Truth.

"I dined with Charles Dana Gibson at Prince's restaurant in London during the season," said a Chicagoan.

"The lofty, spacious dining-room was filled with women in pale gowns, their hair uncovered and their arms and necks bare, and though these women were very fashionable, very aristocratic, they smoked cigarettes with their coffee as they watched the bioscope pictures that went on at one end of the big room and as they listened to the singing that went on at the other.

"Amid all this feminine smoking we Americans began to discuss and to define the word 'lady.' Was it ladylike to smoke? we asked. Would a lady ever smoke? What was a lady?

"I think Mr. Gibson's definition of a lady was the best that was given.

"'A lady,' he said, ignoring the smoke question altogether, "is a woman who always remember others and never forgets herself.'"

City of London Churches.

Within the narrow limits of the city of London, with its mere handful of residents—only sufficient to people a small provincial town—there are still so many churches that you might worship in a different one every Sunday of the year without putting foot inside them all. Within the rural deanery of the East City there are to-day no fewer than ten churches, each of which ministers to a population of less than 200; the aggregate number of parishioners is 1,473, while the churches have accommodation for 2,750, thus providing almost two seats for every possible worshiper, including the infants in arms.

A Charitable Cardinal.

Cardinal Bonaparte was a grandson of Lucien Bonaparte. He was a very charitable man. During one of his illnesses a servant came to him and said that a poor person at the door begged for alms. "Well, bring him in and give him a good meal."

HAD THE SOLDIER'S INSTINCT

British General Immediately Diagnosed Meaning of Shot.

To understand war, says the author of "A People at School," is an instinct. To illustrate the aphorism, he tells a story of an English general whose understanding of sounds was phenomenal. One night, he says, after dinner they were all sitting talking at headquarters. They were expecting an attack, and sentries and pickets were posted far out beyond the stockade.

Suddenly we heard one shot; of course, every one jumped up. The bugles sounded; the men fell in; the officers ran to their posts. Gen. Symons alone had not moved. After listening intently for a moment or two, he had sat down again.

I myself was between two minds, whether to go out with one of the parties hastily assembling outside, or to stay with the general. So I stood irresolutely by the door.

"You can sit down," said Symons; 'it is nothing. A sentry has let off his rifle by accident. That is all."

So it proved. While he was leaning upon his rifle it had gone off, and so had his fingers.—Youth's Companion.

Choose, Oh, Woman!

Justice allows no one to retain both the scepter and the spade. If man, in the fight for life, had at every turn to say to his fair business rivals, "Allow me, madam! Please take my place! I will offer my resignation," the victory would swiftly be to the weak. If woman desires, or is forced, to descend from her pedestal and vie with man, says a writer in Temple Bar, she must be willing to observe the rules of the exhausting conflict.

Lloyd Gynes, formerly of Windsor, Ont., night operator for the Michigan Central Railroad at Galien, Mich., was found murdered at his post by the conductor of a passing train. Gynes was shot through the eye and breast. The motive is not known. Seventy dollars and a gold watch which were on Gynes' person were not touched.

Mrs. Bert Foster, aged 35, whose mind had become deranged from ill health, made a desperate attempt to end her life in Bedford, Ind., by stealing from her room and jumping into a cistern containing twelve feet of water. The immersion brought her to her right mind. Grabbing the pump stock, she screamed for help, and neighbors rescued her unhurt.

After being out twenty-three hours, the jury in the case of Doss Galbraith, charged with leading the mob which lynched three negroes in Springfield, Mo., on the night of April 14, reported to the court that no agreement could be reached and was discharged. The jury stood ten for acquittal and two for conviction through twenty ballots. The Galbraith case was reset upon the docket, but it is doubtful if there will be another trial. The three negroes were taken from jail, hanged to the statue of Liberty and then burned by the mob because of an attack on a white woman. No negroes were on the streets of the city after the jury retired and they kept out of sight all day and night.

PLAN TO CRUSH REBELS.

President Palma Says There Will Be No Faltering with Revolution.

President Palma Monday gave out a statement at Havana in which he says that the insurrection has no ideals and no programe and that the cries which the insurgents raised do not constitute a program, ideals or justification for the movement. Furthermore, he declared there would be no compromise with the rebels. They must be crushed once for all, otherwise the trouble would break out anew.

President Palma is not disposed to employ any other method than that of arms for the re-establishment of peace. He declared energetically that the Cuban government would absolutely never compromise with any form of disturbers of order. The government was legitimately constituted, was bound by its imperious duty and must demonstrate that it is stable and able to safeguard property, life and the happiness of the republic at present and in the future.

To compromise with the disturbers now, he says, would result in further disturbance every few years. Suppressing the insurgents now will forever guarantee the stability of the Cuban institutions, while dickering with them would expose the country to another disturbance of the peace in the near future.

According to the St. Louis Globe-Democrat's Washington correspondent, there is a suspicious undercurrent of expressions relative to the situation in Cuba at both the state and war departments, that seems to indicate the administration is not blind to the possibilities of an impending crisis in the republic. The attitude of the administration toward President Palma is not unfriendly. He has been well disposed toward this country, and has tried personally to cultivate a close friendly relation with the United States, but cannot control his own party, which controls Cuban affairs, and which has done many things which have not tended to commend the Cuban government to the present administration.

The sole warrant for interfering with Cuban affairs is contained in a provision of the Platt amendment, which says we shall have the right to interfere when it becomes apparent that Cuba is not maintaining a government which guarantees protection to life and property rights. There is every sign that the United States is now deliberately awaiting developments in Cuba. It will only interfere when a state closely approaching anarchy exists. When it does interfere, it is believed in Washington, the correspondent asserts, it will mean the end of the Cuban republic. It has been pointed out that if, with the very excellent start given the Cubans by this country, they prove themselves incapable of self-government, they have, indeed, demonstrated their unfitness to govern themselves at all. If the United States interferes to put down disorder and still anarchy, it cannot decide upon the merits of the quarrel with the existing government. It can only substitute for the lack of order its own power and authority. It can do this with its army and navy. When it does this under the authorization of the Platt amendment, it is believed it will constitute the first step in the direction of annexation, which can only come through an act of Congress.

News from the somewhat uncertain shifting "front" is meager, due in a measure to the government's determination that false reports from insurgent sources shall not be generally circulated. Failure of the government forces to take the offensive against the insurgent leader Guerra and that rebel's hesitancy in striking the promised blow encourage the hope that peace may be secured without great bloodshed. It is hinted in some quarters that the insurgents do not seriously contemplate the overthrow of the government and would be satisfied if by making a show of force they could frighten or persuade President Palma to restore certain deposed liberals to office and make concessions as to the conduct of future elections.

Claims and counter claims are frequent, but there is comparatively little actual fighting. At the palace in Havana little is given out. The enrollment of volunteers continues, horses are being requisitioned, and army nurs are being requisitioned, and army nurses are being sent to the field. There is talk of a thirty days' amnesty in which insurgents who surrender their arms would be pardoned, but if the government intends such a move its purpose is not admitted.

Armstrong Attacks Radium Fad.

Prof. Henry E. Armstrong, the distinguished London scientist, has joined Lord Kelvin in a protest against the proposition submitted to the British association that the production of helium from radium has established the fact of the evolution of one element into others. Prof. Armstrong says that no one has yet handled radium in sufficient quantities to be able to say precisely what it is. He admits that helium can be obtained from radium, but points out that this is no proof that the former is not merely contained in the latter. He remarks that scientists in the radium school "appear to have cast caution to the winds and to have substituted pure imagination for it."

SCENES AND PEOPLE IN THE CUBAN REVOLUTION.

WORK OF THE TERRORISTS.

Riot and Assassination Continue in Unhappy Russia.

General Voullarski, acting military governor-general of Warsaw, was shot and killed at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon while driving in a cab. The assassin escaped. General Voullarski was the commander of the Fifth Army Corps, stationed at Warsaw.

General Min, commander of the Semlnovsky Guard Regiment and a personal adjutant in the suite of the Czar, was assassinated Sunday night at Peterhof by a young woman, who fired five shots into his body and then submitted to arrest. The capture of the girl was effected by General Min's wife, who held her until the arrival of an officer. Any of the five wounds inflicted by the girl's bullets would have resulted fatally.

This act of terrorism, following closely Saturday's unsuccessful attempt on the life of Premier Stolypin, with its sickening slaughter of thirty-two persons, together with other developments of the day in the reign of violence, has caused the utmost alarm in official circles.

One of these developments was an attempt on the life of General Kaulbars, governor of Odessa. A girl dropped a bomb in the Nicholas boulevard fifty paces from the palace of the governor. There was a deafening detonation and a wild stampede of the promenaders. No one was injured except the girl, whose hand was shattered. It is supposed that the bomb accidentally fell from her hand as she was making her way to the door of the palace. She and another girl and a university student who was accompanying them were arrested.

The increased activity of the "reds" has caused renewed talk of a military dictatorship. According to a report current a meeting of the camarilla discussed the question at Peterhof and a majority was in favor of such a step.

Two other attempts had been made recently on the life of General Min, who was condemned to death by the terrorists immediately after the Moscow revolt last December on account of the stern repression practiced by a battalion under his command and especially for the wholesale execution of persons condemned by drumhead court-martial for being caught with arms in their hands.

POLITICS and POLITICIANS

President Samuel Gompers of the American Federation of Labor has begun his stumping tour in Maine against the re-election of Littlefield. Mr. Gompers charges Littlefield with being an enemy of organized labor.

The resolution indorsing W. R. Hearst was rejected by the convention of union printers at Colorado Springs, but in its place a resolution was adopted commending all legislators and editors who have exerted themselves in behalf of union labor.

The attitude of President Roosevelt toward State factional fights in the Republican party was made plain again during the week by his approval of the course of federal officers at New York in not taking sides in the contest for the chairmanship of the New York Republican committee.

Justice Brewer of the United States Supreme Court, in a St. Louis interview, said that the next presidential election would be fought with Taft representing the Republicans and Bryan the Democrats. He paid high compliments to the virtues of both men. He thought that Bryan and Roosevelt had many qualities in common, both being earnest and fearless, and having the interests of the country at heart. Taft, he said, was not so impulsive or decisive as the President, and would have less friction.

President Dettrey of District 7, United Mine Workers, was nominated by the Socialist party of Luzerne County, Pa., after which he declined a nomination for the same office by the labor party. He announced that the salvation of the wage earners was to be found in the Socialist party.

The unusual spectacle of a Democratic convention frankly indorsing both Roosevelt and Bryan, the former for his fights on trusts and the latter as the next presidential candidate, was presented by the convention of the Twelfth Ohio Congressional District.

CURRENT COMMENT

The Crops of 1906.

In the aggregate cereal yield 1906 will break all records. This is indicated by figures of condition and acreage just made public by the Department of Agriculture. The corn crop will amount to 2,693,000,000 bushels, if present prospects hold out a few weeks longer. This will lack only 14,000,000 bushels of reaching the biggest figures of the past, the yield for 1905. But there is hope that even the 1905 crop will be left behind. In no year except 1905 were the corn prospects so bright as they are at this moment.

The wheat crop has passed all former records. It amounts to 759,000,000 bushels. The winter wheat crop is 492,000,000 bushels and the spring variety is 267,000,000. The largest previous aggregate wheat yield was in 1901, when it was 748,000,000 bushels, or 11,000,000 below the 1906 total. As the preliminary figures of the Department of Agriculture, like those just given out, are usually below the aggregate which is found in the final round-up, there is an excellent chance that the indicated 759,000,000 bushels for 1906 will turn out to be greater than this when the returns are all in.

Oats, rye, barley, buckwheat and potatoes are also up to high figures in the estimate made by the Department of Agriculture. Hay shows a slight falling off in acreage, and probably in yield. But the grand aggregate of the country's great crops will be larger than in any former year. This will be needed because the country is growing with great rapidity. Not far from 2,000,000 are being added to our population each year nowadays, with the immigration considerably above the 1,000,000 mark. Prices remain high, which means that the producers will get big returns for their crops. The farmer is the favored man these days. The country is accumulating wealth at a rate beyond anything ever seen in the past.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

DEATH RATE OF CITIES.

St. Joseph, Mo., and Chicago Make Excellent Showings.

Chicago's claims as the most healthful of all the great cities of the country once more are confirmed through the official census reports. The complete report on mortality for the years 1900 to 1904 inclusive was issued the other day.

Chicago's annual death rate average per thousand of population for the five-year period is much less than that of any other city coming within the first class, while among cities of the second class only St. Paul, Minneapolis and Milwaukee present a lower average. Following are the averages for the five years for the principal cities:

Chicago	14.6	St. Louis	18.1
New York	19.6	Denver	19.2
Philadelphia	18.8	Washington	20.0
Boston	18.0	Milwaukee	13.3
Buffalo	15.0	Detroit	15.6
Pittsburg	20.7	Minneapolis	11.4
Cleveland	16.1	St. Paul	10.5
Cincinnati	19.1	San Francisco	21.0

The smallest average death rate is shown by St. Joseph, Mo., it being only 7.6 per 1,000 of population. Charleston, S. C., had the highest, 31.13. The other cities of the South show a particularly high death rate, as follows:

Richmond, Va.	25.7	Atlanta	22.3
New Orleans	23.1	Jacksonville	28.1
Memphis	19.2	Nashville	22.1

Nothing is said concerning the reason for the high mortality in the South.

A Water Kite for Sounding.

A Berlin scientific paper tells of a new device arranged by a Swedish scientist to reduce the danger of shallow water in navigation. It consists of a simple water kite, which is fastened to a wire cable and cast over the side of the ship. By reason of the oblique pressure, the kite sinks rapidly as far as its cable permits. On the side of the winch a scale and register tells the depths to which the kite has descended. As soon as the kite comes in contact with any solid obstruction or shallow bottom, a coupling is released, which instantly slackens the tension of the cable by changing the position of the kite; this sets in motion an alarm bell on deck, which attracts the attention of the watch.

ADOPTS REFORMED SPELLING.

President Will Use Neo Method in Al Offishul Dokuments.

President Roosevelt the other day announced that he has adopted the Carnegie reform spelling and that he has instructed the public printer that all official documents from the White House, including President's messages, shall be printed in accordance with the recommendations of a spelling reform committee headed by Brander Matthews of Columbia University.

This committee has published a list of 300 words in which the spelling is reformed. This list contains such words as "thru" and "tho" as the spelling for "through" and "though."

The President's official sanction of this reform movement is regarded as the most effective and speediest method of inaugurating the new system of spelling throughout the country. Not only will the printed documents emanating from the President utilize the reform spelling, but his correspondence also will be spelled in the new style.

Secretary Loeb has sent for the list of 300 words which have been reformed, and upon its arrival will immediately order all correspondence of the President and of the executive force of the White House spelled in accordance therewith. As the spelling reform committee shall adopt new reforms they will be added to the President's list and also to that of the public printer.

While the order to the printer does not contemplate an immediate reform in the spelling of official documents from the executive departments in Washington, it is regarded that more than likely the respective heads of the departments will fall in line with the President's ideas and have their official documents printed in the new spelling.

Professor William Hand Browne of the English department at Johns Hopkins University, who is one of the compilers of the Standard Dictionary, said regarding President Roosevelt's reform in spelling:

"Adopting simplified spelling is not like adopting a new system of weights and measures. In the former one must take some account of formation of the language if there still exists a love for the national tongue.

"To a certain extent I approve of some reform in spelling, especially in words which have been misspelled through erroneous etymology, as the word 'rhyme,' for example. That word originally and correctly was 'rime' and there is some justice in changing it. But to change 100 or more words in a language in order to make it easier to spell or more phonetic is to act without regard to etymology and is cutting off the language from the past.

"It brings to my mind that anecdote of the man who, from a perverted feeling for his dog's sensibilities, decided that in cutting off his dog's tail it was more merciful to cut it off in pieces than it would be to remove it all at once."

Among the numerous opinions obtained by the London newspapers of President Roosevelt's order with regard to a reform in spelling, George Bernard Shaw says: "There has been nothing like it since Mahomet reformed the calendar by making the year consist of twelve lunar months. It serves us right. The thing had to be taken in hand somehow and if we had refused to listen to our own experts we must make the best of the two energetic amateurs who have forced our hands."

On June 18 last the Simplified spelling board made a list of 300 words of simplified spelling which were passed on by the board. Following is the list of new words:

Abridgment, accouter, accurst, acknowledgment, addrest, adz, affixt, altho, anapest, anemia, anesthesia, anesthetic, antipyrin, antitoxin, apothem, apprize, arbor, archeology, ardor, armor, artizan, assize, ax.

COMMERCIAL AND FINANCIAL

Chicago. The principal developments in commerce reflect sustained progress, seasonable stimulus appearing in manufactures and distribution of necessaries. Aside from exciting conditions in pig iron, other leading industries find demands well sustained, heavy construction and transportation show augmentation, while dealings in the staples steadily expand and furnish exceptional activity among jobbing branches in fall and winter goods. Fine weather and an enormous influx of visitors have brought a gratifying increase of business to State street. Money circulates freely, trading defaults are small, and the purchasing power of the people makes favorable comparison with former periods. Advices from the tributary territory point to the strong financial position of the agricultural interests, and wholesome influence noted in enlarged country store operations, depleted stocks of merchandise. Another strengthening element is expanded deposits of country banks and ability to take care of crop moving needs to a greater extent than heretofore.

The markets for grain and provisions present a lower average of values and lessened demands, but this is not surprising in view of the plenteous supplies. In other branches of activity conditions maintain much strength. Demands for finished products of the mills and factories show equal absorption, and this involves additional pressure upon facilities. Railroads order not only liberal tonnage of rails, but also much required rolling stock and miscellaneous material.

Bank clearings, $200,475,028, exceed those of corresponding week in 1905 by 11.2 per cent.

Failures reported in Chicago district number 28, against 24 last week and 30 a year ago.—Dun's Review of Trade.

New York. Abundant crops and an oversold steel industry engender sentiments of confidence that make the outlook bright for a continuance of present prosperous business conditions. Each week brings a new high water mark in some department, and the net result is uniformly better than for the corresponding week in any previous year. The weather has favored both crops and the distribution of merchandise, while the latter is increased by seasonable bargain sales. Despite unprecedented preparations for business by liberal purchase of rolling stock, the railways are facing a serious traffic blockade that cannot be avoided when the crops begin to move freely. Earnings thus far reported for August were 11.7 per cent larger than last year. No relief appears as to the supply of labor, production being reduced in some cases where consumers are most urgent. Fall dry goods jobbing trade broadens, clothing manufacturers make heavy shipments and the leading industries are usually supplied with orders assuring active machinery well into next year. July foreign commerce for the whole country far surpassed the same month in any previous year, especially as to imports, which were close to the largest in any previous month, and at this port alone for the last week there were gains of $5,891,408 in imports and $1,510,833 in exports as compared with the same week in 1905.

Making hay simply means making things hum while the sun shines.

Do not set a hen on a nest box the second time without a thorough cleansing and whitewashing.

Farming has been classified an easy business by those who observe it from car windows. This is all right in theory but it will not work in practice.

All the odds and ends should not be put off until a rainy day or one may not come out even with his work. It is better to keep them up as one goes along.

A ton of alfalfa hay cut a little on the green side of life is worth a ton of bran as stock feed. Clover hay cut at the proper time will be almost as good as the alfalfa.

A bunch of wild horses in Oklahoma—said to be the last herd of wild horses in existence—gave up the chase the next day after the territory was admitted as a state. Could not stand civilization.

Cows are often cheated out of a great deal of bovine enjoyment by being denied night pasturage. Most people feel that it is too much trouble to go after the cows in the morning, hence they are kept up in a dry lot.

If any bare spots appear in the house lawn, either rake them over and seed down, or sod them. If the lawn looks as though it needed more food, broadcast some fertilizer, preferably nitrate of soda, just before a rain. About a hundred pounds of nitrate to the acre.

Iowa is endeavoring to do something practical toward making the selling of eggs by weight the rule in the future. A bill fixing weights and measures has been introduced in the Legislature and one section of this bill provides that a dozen eggs shall weigh a pound and a half.

A great many good things have to be introduced with difficulty. Some years ago when the silo was being introduced there were many that made fun of the "corn kraut," as they were pleased to call silage, but now there are many who cannot understand why there are not more silos.

Whether building a stack of grain with a fork or "kneeing" every bundle, one thing is necessary to keep the middle well filled. If this rule is followed there will be but little grain spoiled. After one has reached that point above the "bulge" it will be well to keep the middle quite full.

Young chicks should be fed regularly and each should get its share; this is very important and should not be overlooked if good results are expected. Remember too that little chicks have no teeth and must have sand, crushed bone, shell and charcoal in some form, with which to grind their food.

Tramps do not take kindly to bread and butter. They desire something better, and a good way to get rid of them is to offer them bread and butter, and if they will not take that let them go without. A hungry man will be glad to get bread and butter. They will not often call at a place where they get this kind of a hand-out.

Have you tried to grow a few potatoes under straw, or by what is known as the straw method? Plant them shallow and cover with six inches or a foot of straw and give no further cultivation. The straw will keep the soil moist, keep down the weeds and the vines will come up through the straw and the new tubers will set on just under the straw and are easily dug.

Skimmilk and flaxseed jelly is a fairly good substitute for natural milk in fattening calves. Add one pint of flaxseed to three quarts of water and boil twenty minutes, or until it becomes jelly. For a very young calf use about two tablespoonfuls to each feed of warm skimmilk, and gradually increase the quantity of the mixture, keeping the proportion of the jelly and milk about the same.

Eight gallons of water per day is the average quantity required for a cow, and the milk given is about 87 per cent water. In some pastures there is no water, the cows being supplied night and morning, which forces each cow to drink four gallons at a time in order to be supplied. As the cow does not know that she must drink four gallons, she may use less and she will reduce her milk supply accordingly.

Missouri claims $31,042,762 worth of eggs, poultry and feathers last year with an average of but little more than fifty eggs to the hen. If these results can be obtained with this kind of a bird, what may not be expected when the majority of farmers keep only 175 to 200 egg hens? We believe this class of birds are coming and in the near future at that. Barren and poor yielding stalks are no longer tolerated in the cornfield by up-to-date farmers. Why should this class of birds be allowed to predominate?

Poultry Drinking Basins.

Take a basin that will hold about two quarts of water and fill it with pebbles a little smaller than eggs. When level full of pebbles, pour in the water until the spaces between them are full. Sink the basin in the ground until the rim is an inch above the surface. The chicks can run all over this, stepping on the pebbles and can drink the water without getting wet. It is easy to clean, keeps the water cool for several hours and protects the chicks from getting wet all over, as they cannot crowd each other into the water, no matter how much they try to do so.

Give the Hogs Some Salt.

The old idea that hogs do not need salt has passed away. The Missouri experiment station says this about it:

Feeding salt to hogs is a matter upon which little emphasis is usually put, but it is doubtless one of those important trifles which we may consider with profit. Salt is a normal constituent of animal tissue and of the blood, plays an important part in the stimulation of the internal organs and is the source of the chlorine of the hydrochloric acid in the gastric juice. It is always present in the urine whether present in the food or not, and death may be caused if complete absence of salt in the ration obtains during a considerable time.

Value of Rape.

While rape is a food of undoubted value to farm stock, and particularly so for horses, swine and poultry, much care must be used in feeding it to cows and sheep, else it is apt to make trouble. If cows and sheep are allowed to eat too freely of it under certain conditions it will cause bloat, particularly if the rape is especially succulent or is damp from rain or dew. The best way to pasture rape, and we consider this the better plan for any farm animal, is to turn them on to it after their appetites have been partially satisfied with grain or other pasturage. We especially like the plan of turning the animals into the rape for only an hour or two daily. We give them what grain they have in the morning, then turn them on to the rape for an hour and then back into the regular pasture, where they remain until the middle of the afternoon, when they are again given an hour or less in the rape field. The rape has its worst effect on sheep, but in handling them in the manner suggested there is little or no trouble.

Making Cider.

Cider-making offers a good opportunity of saving the surplus apples from the home fruit garden, after the best have been put into the cellar for winter use, thus making valuable apples that otherwise would be thrown away. A bruise which would render an apple unfit for storage does not impair it as a source of cider.

The best cider is not made from sweet apples, or from apples that have little juice, such as Ben Davis, but from good, juicy, sour kinds, such as Northern Spy, Baldwin and the like. It is often advisable to mix a few sweet apples in with the sour ones to soften the taste of the cider, but this is a matter of taste.

If good specimens of the Northern Spy are used, the cider will prove an expensive luxury. Therefore, any undersized apples and any that become bruised in handling may be used.

For the man who intends making only a small amount of cider each year—enough for consumption in his own household during the winter—a mill worked by hand and pressing the pomace of only two or three bushels of apples is the most practical. A mill of this sort will cost anywhere from $10 up, according to the size.

Raising Bees.

It may be safely said that any place where farming, gardening or fruit raising can be successfully followed is adapted to the profitable keeping of bees—in a limited way at least, if not extensively. Many of these localities will support extensive apiaries. In addition to this there are, within the borders of the United States thousands of good locations for the apiarist—forest, prairie swamps and mountain regions—where agriculture has as yet not gained a foothold, either because of remoteness from markets or the uninviting character of soil or climate.

This pursuit may also be followed in or near towns, and to a limited extent in large cities. The ability of the bees to range over areas inaccessible to other farm stock, and to draw their sustenance from dense forests, when the timber is of the right kind, and the freedom which, because of their nature, must be accorded them, to pasture on whatever natural sources are within their range of three or four miles, must be taken into account in estimating the possibilities of a locality.

It will be found that very few localities exist in our country where at least a few colonies of bees may not be kept.

DENEEN TICKET WINS.

GOVERNOR'S FRIENDS CONTROL CONVENTION.

Smulski Named by Republicans as State Treasurer Candidate—Blair Given Second Place on List—Cannon Boom Is Boosted.

For State Treasurer—John F. Smulski, Chicago.

For Superintendent of Public Instruction—Frank G. Blair, Charleston, Coles County.

For University Trustees—Three Year Terms—Mrs. Carrie S. Alexander, Belleville; Alexander McLain; Fred L. Hatch, Spring Valley.

University Trustee—Unexpired Term—L. L. Lehman, Mattoon.

Springfield Correspondence:

The Deneen organization put its program through the Republican State convention without contest or controversy. In four hours, record-smashing time, the 1,582 delegates nominated the above ticket, each member of which was the choice of the administration, adopted a platform and bolted for their trains.

It was 12:07 o'clock when Roy O. West, as chairman of the State Central Committee, began hammering for order, and at 4.07 the motion to adjourn was carried. It was a most harmonious convention. The Deneen program ran through without a single stumble, or even a wabble.

The nominations of Smulski and Blair, the Deneen candidates, were made strictly in accordance with previous announcements, on the second ballot in each instance. It was expected that the university trustees would be named by acclamation and without opposition, but at the last minute Walter A. Parker of La Grange got into the field and a roll call was necessary. But Parker got but 400 votes to the 1,000 and odd each for the others.

There was no unmannerly or boisterous display of enthusiasm while the convention was in session. It was too hot in the first place. Old settlers proudly asserted that Springfield is the hottest place this side of Tophet, and the delegates who, in shirt sleeves and collarless, sweltered through four hours in the Armory, were willing to agree without argument.

Cheer Cannon's Name.

When "Uncle Joe" Cannon was put forward for President there was an outburst of applause. The mention of the names of the President, the Governor and other leaders by the two speakers of the day brought spirited responses, and when Senator Berry spoke of the "grand career" of Senator Cullom and his splendid vindication at the polls there was a demonstration that lasted three minutes, and which made every other notable present jealous.

All the convention did was to listen to the speeches of Temporary Chairman Berry and Permanent Chairman Shurtleff and to make the nominations. The committees on credentials and resolutions were named at the caucuses by congressional districts in the morning and their reports were accepted without question. The platform was read as the last business of the convention.

When Chairman West called the convention to order, he announced that the State committee "recommended" that Senator Arville F. Berry be made temporary chairman and put the matter to a roll call, ruling that such action was necessary under the primary law. The delegates were pretty nearly all present at the beginning, and there was a good courtesy audience. Sergeant-at-Arms Tinney led Mr. Berry to the platform. Immediately upon assuming the gavel, however, he began his speech to the convention. Next Homer K. Galpin was announced as secretary and Speaker E. D. Shurtleff was made permanent chairman by acclamation. All he had to say was that this is "a Roosevelt year, a Deneen year, a Cullom year and a Lorimer year." At the mention of the last name there was a spontaneous shout.

As soon as Shurtleff had finished his short talk he ordered a roll call on the nomination of a candidate for State Treasurer. There were no preliminaries like nominating speeches. Upon the first ballot the delegates voted strictly in accordance with their primary instructions.

The result of the first ballot was:

Russell, 636; Smulski, 621; Messick, 172; Knopf, 103; necessary to a choice, 792.

Knopf withdrew and all his votes went to the Chicago man. Russel's own delegates began to desert with the sixth county called and kept on deserting. The result was:

Smulski, 1,124; Russel, 488; Messick, 70.

Unanimous for Blair.

On the first roll call for Superintendent of Public Instruction, Blair got 700½ votes, Bangs 461, Kimzey 235½, and Edwards 185. Kimzey and Edwards withdrew before the second call was started, and Bangs followed suit when a score of counties had "slumped" to his rival, so Blair was named unanimously.

The four successful candidates and Walter L. Parker were put in nomination for university trustees after a resolution had been adopted providing that the three individuals getting the highest vote should get the long terms and the next highest the short one.

Mrs. Alexander led the list with 1,481, and Hatch and McLain came next with 1,446 and 1,432, respectively. Lehman got fourth and the short term with 1,281 and Parker trailed with 481.

While the tellers were casting up the vote the resolutions were read and adopted and the time-honored motion empowering the State Central Committee to fill vacancies was passed. Then came adjournment.

Points in the Platform.

The convention adopted a platform that:

Declared for the "stand pat" policy on the tariff question.

Eulogized President Roosevelt and Gov. Deneen in about equal terms, the "business administration" of the latter, especially in regard to the charitable institutions, eliciting approval.

Speaker Cannon enthusiastically indorsed as the presidential nominee in 1908.

Declared that all the Republican Congressmen ought to be returned.

A PLAGUE OF LOCUSTS.

Myriads of Them Laying Waste the Harvest Fields of Hungary.

Myriads of locusts are devastating the country in the neighborhood of Debreczin, Hungary.

They are sweeping through the land, eating every green thing they find in their path. The crops on 60,000 acres have already been consumed, so that the ground is quite bare, and the authorities are helpless to stay the advance of the insects.

All sorts of desperate means are being tried without avail to keep back the invading host. Fires have been lighted, but the locusts swarm into the flames until they are extinguished, and the survivors continue their march unimpeded.

Twelve steam rollers are being used at one place, and roller brooms are sweeping up the dead bodies of the crushed insects. But no apparent progress is made. The locusts cover the earth in many places to the depth of several inches, and defy annihilation.

To make matters worse, a storm has carried clouds of them over the River Theiss, and they have devoured practically all the corn, which was standing in sheaves. What is left is worthless, as animals refuse to touch it owing to its peculiar smell.

The plague first appeared last year, when a force of 600 men was organized to destroy the locusts. This year the position of affairs is much worse, and many farmers are threatened with ruin.

NEED TWENTY THOUSAND MEN.

Canadian Northwest Cannot Harvest Wheat Without Them.

The wheat growers of Manitoba and Saskatchewan have sent forth a cry to the older provinces in the Dominion for men to assist them in harvesting this year's crop of wheat. The yield will be greater than in any previous season. Coupled with the yield is the increase in acreage and the farmers do not know where they will secure sufficient help to harvest the crop.

The Manitoba government estimates already in the province will be required that fully 20,000 men in addition to those already in the province will be required to care for the crop of wheat. The government has undertaken to secure men from the older provinces, and agents have been placed in the larger cities with instructions to secure men and forward them to Winnipeg, from which point they will be distributed to the grain centers.

The general prosperity of the country, which insures work for everyone; the heavy demand for laborers in western Canada and in our own Western States, and the usual demand for extra men at this season of the year for the gathering of the crops, have resulted in an unusual shortage of farm help.

NONCONTIGOUS TRADE LARGE.

Figures for Fiscal Year Show Business with "Dependencies."

Trade of the United States with its non-contiguous territories amounted in the fiscal year just ended to $110,304,511. A bulletin issued by the Department of Commerce and Labor says:

"The shipments to the non-contiguous territories amounted to $51,666,666.67, against $43,500,000 in the fiscal year 1905, this growth of about 20 per cent occurring in the shipments to Alaska, Hawaii and Porto Rico, but especially Porto Rico, while to the Philippine Islands there was a reduction of about $750,000.

"Merchandise shipped from the noncontiguous territories to the United States amounted to $67,666,666.67, against $75,250,000 in the preceding year, this fall occuring almost exclusively in the shipments from Hawaii and being due chiefly to the decrease in the value of sugar."

The value of gold of domestic production shipped from Alaska to the United States in 1906 was $12,500,000, against $9,000,000 the preceding year, and of foreign gold $7,500,000, against $10,750,000 last year, this "foreign" gold being the product of mines in the adjacent Canadian territory shipped to the United States through Alaska.

158 DEAD; CELEBRATED JULY 4.

Medical Journal Asserts 75 of These Died from Tetanus.

One hundred and fifty-eight persons are dead as a result of accidents in the United States during the last celebration of the Fourth of July. Tetanus is given as the cause in seventy-five cases. The total number of injuries reported is 5,308, the largest in four years that statistics have been compiled. These figures are given in the current issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association. A comparison of the total of accidents directly due to the toy pistol in the last four years shows a decrease until this year, when 979 persons were injured by blank cartridges.

The report declares that the greater number of minor accidents were due to giant firecrackers. Of the injured twenty-two suffered complete loss of sight, seventy-two one eye, fifty-six legs, arms or hands and 227 fingers.

Root to Pan-American Congress.

Secretary of State Root addressed the Pan-American congress at Rio de Janeiro, with a message of good-fellowship and cooperation, which created a most favorable impression. He said American nations should aid each other, but that the United States coveted no territory. He complimented Latin America on its progress toward stable government. He declared that we wished no victories but those of peace, and no sovereignty except sovereignty over ourselves. No rights were claimed which we would not freely concede to every other American republic. He declared that the coming world's congress at The Hague, at which all American countries would be represented, would be "the formal and final acceptance of the declaration that no part of the American continent is to be deemed subject to colonization."

Soldiers May Shoot Lynch Mobs.

Gov. Glenn of North Carolina has issued an order to the State militia, giving the right to fire on mobs without waiting for the permission of the local sheriff, as has been the custom. He warns that every man composing a mob is without the pale of the law.

Industrial Farm in Utah.

Through the efforts of the women's clubs of Utah, 800 acres of land have been secured as an industrial farm for friendless children. The cottage system will be adopted.

ILLINOIS DEMOCRATS.

STATE CONVENTION IN PEORIA INDORSES BRYAN.

Lively Scenes on Floor Attend Proceedings of Great Gathering—Candidates Nominated for State Offices—Features of Platform.

For State Treasurer.....N. L. Piotrowski
For Superintendent of Public Instruction.....Caroline Grote
For Trustees State Univerity D. R. Cameron J. S. Cuneo Clara D. Borland

Peoria Correspondence:

Illinois Democrats in State convention in this city Tuesday, by a vote of 1,017 to 581, tabled resolutions asking for Roger C. Sullivan's resignation as national committeeman introduced at the instigation of William J. Bryan. They also showed their preference for the Chicago leader by electing a new State committee which will stand at least 27 to 2 for Sullivan and which is absolutely in his control.

Bryan forbade the convention to pass resolutions indorsing him unless it first had purged itself by taking control of the State party machinery away from Roger C. Sullivan.

Warm Eulogy of Bryan.

The convention elected a State committee entirely to Roger Sullivan's liking and then cheerfully passed these resolutions advocating Bryan as the next presidential candidate:

"For President of the United States in 1908 the Democrats of Illinois first and last have but one choice and that man is William Jennings Bryan.

"In this period of official hypocrisy, political corruption and cowardly surrender of principles to expedients wherever Republicanism holds sway, William Jennings Bryan towers above all Americans as fittest to lead in the fight to rescue our government from the bonds of special interests and restore it to all the people.

"The Democracy of Illinois eagerly looks forward to 1908 for the opportunity to join with sister States in nominating and triumphantly electing him President of the United States.

"The time calls for a President of Bryan's merit, sincerity, and political philosophy."

Mr. Bryan commanded the convention to pass a resolution declaring Roger Sullivan unfit to hold the office of national committeeman from Illinois. In obedience thereto the following resolution was presented to the gathering:

"Resolved, That this convention now request that Roger C. Sullivan resign his position as national committeeman of this State."

The convention promptly put this resolution on the table by a vote of 1,058 to 570, with 51 delegaaes not voting.

Almost Riot as Climax.

Orderly as the previous part of the convention was declared to be, the vote upon the anti-Sullivan resoltion was attended by scenes that frequently stopped a little short of a riot. The tumult was so constant that the announcement of the vote was often completely drowned out, the aisles and area in front of the platform were filled with surging masses of combative and sweltering delegates, and numerous hand to hand encounters between the warring factions took place.

The adoption of the report of the committee on the selection of committeemen at large was hardly less important to the Sullivan men than the tabling of the resolution asking for their leader's resignation. It gives them absolute control of the State committee by so large a majority that it is hopeless to wrest it from them.

Nominations Without Disorder.

Outside of the fight over the Sullivan resolution and the adoption of the committee report the convention was a quiet affair. The nomination of the candidates was a matter of but little moment.

Two were placed in the field for State Treasurer, John A. White, of Peoria, and N. L. Piotrowski. Piotrowski was the choice of Cook County, but got little assistance from outside until the end, when enough counties changed their votes to give him the nomination.

The nomination of Miss Caroline Grote, of Pike County, for Superintendent of Public Instruction afforded an opportunity for a novel demonstration. She was given a reception in which all the delegates joined, the incident being one which Miss Grote is not likely to forget for years.

The nominations for the positions of university trustees were made without trouble. D. R. Cameron and John S. Cuneo, of Cook County, and Clara P. Borland, of Peoria, were given the places on the ticket without a contest.

The platform was also adopted without a struggle. It met the requirements of all factions. It declared for tariff reform, attacked the attitude of the Republican Congress and President Roosevelt toward the beef trust and the rebate bills and in general denounced the policy of the national administration.

The State administration came in for a worse scoring at the hands of the convention than did the national one. Governor Deneen's primary bill was denounced as bogus and his administration characterized as one of "sham reform." His civil service bill was also attacked and it was declared in the platform that he had himself done all he could to render it inoperative.

UP-TO-DATE DESIGNS FOR THE HOME DRESSMAKER

Simple Lingerie Gown.

Such a pretty linen suit, in firm white linen with insets of heavy insertion, was developed after this design! The graceful princess skirt is cut with nine gores, but has almost the effect of a circular skirt. It fits perfectly, and a corselet always shows a pretty figure to the best advantage. In fact, these princess skirts have a youthful air that is quite irresistible. The skirt and blouse both fasten in the back. The blouse has the shoulder plaits well over toward the sleeves, so giving an opportunity of applying the insertion in an effective design on the front. The sleeves may be short, or may have deep buttoned cuffs, either style having its own advantages.

Either of the above patterns will be mailed to your address for 10 cents. Send all orders to the Pattern Department of this paper. Be sure to give both the number and size of the pattern wanted, and write very plainly. For convenience, write your order on the following coupons:

of tucks run from shoulders to belt, tapering to the waist line. The neck is cut away in front and finished with a fetching little collar that is daintily embroidered, the sleeves being finished with cuffs that are treated in the same manner. A chemisette of all-over lace fills in the open neck. White handkerchief linen is used in our model, but any soft goods will make up equally as well.

The above pattern will be mailed to your address on receipt of 10 cents. Send all orders to the Pattern Department of this paper. Be sure to give both the number and size of pattern wanted, and write very plainly. For convenience, write your order on the following coupon:

AND THEN GIRL FELT SMALL

Indignation at Fulsome Compliment Not Necessary.

A Riverside drive girl whose pretty face and attractive figure are sources of embarrassment at times, owing to the comment they excite in public places, tells a goood story on herself.

"I was crossing One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street last week to make a few purchases," she says, "when I passed two callow youths lounging in front of a shop. As I went by one of them turned to the other and said in a perfectly audible voice: 'Jim, there's a duck.'

"I was deliberating between a withering stare and a lofty ignoring of the incident as the proper way to treat such impertinence, when a particularly fine duck dangling just overhead almost brushed my nose. The next establishment was a butcher shop and ducks were among the commodities for sale.

"For a few minutes I felt so small that I seemed in imminent danger of fading out of existence."—New York Press.

Men Past Sixty in Danger.

More than half of mankind over sixty years of age suffer from kidney and bladder disorders, usually enlargement of prostate gland. This is both painful and dangerous, and Foley's Kidney Cure should be taken at the first sign of danger, as it corrects irregularities and has cured many old men of this disease. Mr. Rodney Burnett, Rock Port Mo., writes; I suffered with enlarged prostate gland and kidney trouble for years and after taking two bottles of Foley,s Kidney Cure I feel better than I have for twenty years although I am now 91 years old. Sold by J. H. Swan.

Discouraged.

"Mamma," said Pickaninny Jim, "why didn't you name me George Washington?"

"Sonny," was the answer, "I isn't gwine to name no mo' chillen George Washington. As soon as dey hyahs dat story 'bout not bein' able to tell a lie, dey 'pears to git 'curious to find out whether it's so or not, an' dey stahts in 'sperimentin' as soon as dey kin talk."

FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE

Cures Kidney and Bladder Diseases in Every Form—Many People Have Kidney Trouble and Do Not Know It.

HOW TO FIND OUT.

It is the function of the kidneys to filter and purify the blood which is constantly passing through them.

When the kidneys are out of order the other organs are affected immediately and you may have symptons of heart trouble, stomach and liver trouble, and other ailments, which are all owing to the kidneys being weak and out of order.

If you are sick Foley's Kidney Cure will strengthen and build up the worn out tissues of the kidneys so they will act properly and the symptons of weakness, heart, stomach and liver trouble will disappear and you will be restored to perfect health.

How to Tell If You Have Kidney Trouble.

You can easily determine if your kidneys are out of order by setting aside for 24 hours a bottle of the urine passed upon arising. If upon examination it is cloudy or milky or has a brick-dust sediment or small particles float about in it, your kidneys are diseased and Foley's Kidney Cure should be taken at once.

Foley's Kidney Cure is pleasant to take and acts directly upon the parts affected and you begin to feel better at once.

It corrects slight disorders in a few days and it has cured many obstinate cases after other treatment had failed.

Doctors Said He Would Not Live.

Peter Frey, of Woodruff, Pa., writes: "After doctoring for two years with the best physicians in Waynesburg, and still getting worse, the doctors advised me if I had any business to attend to I had better attend to it at once, as I could not possibly live another month, as there was no cure for me. Foley's Kidney Cure was recommended to me by a friend, and I immediately sent my son to the store for it and after taking three bottles I began to get better and continued to improve until I was entirely well."

There is nothing so pleasant as that bright cheerful, at-peace-with-the-world feeling when you sit down to your breakfast. There is nothing so conductive to good work ann good results The healthy man with a healthy mind and body is a better fellow a better workman, a better citizen, than the man or woman who is handicapped by some disability, however slight. A slight disorder of the stomach will derange your body, you thoughts and your disposition. Get away from the morbidness and the blues. Keep your stomach in tune and both your brain and body will respond. Little indescretions of overeating can be easily corrected and you will be surprised to see how much better man you are. Try a little Kbdol for Dyspepsia after your meals. Sold by J. H. Swan.

Couldn't Complain.

If anything, the quack doctor was more than usually eloquent. "Ladies and gentlemen," he cried at the end of his telling oration, "I have visited this place for the last ten years, I have sold thousands of bottles of this miraculous specific, and I have never received a complaint from a purchaser. Now, what does that prove?"

He paused for dramatic effect, and there was no doubt that his words had impressed his audience, till a man at the back of the crowd spoke. "Don't prove nothing," he said. "Every one knows dead men tell no tales."

What Father Does.

Mothers may talk, work, struggle to make their sons models by which to shape a new heaven and a new earth. But the boy's world is in the man who is his father and the boy believes that, whatever may be right on Sundays or at prayer time, the things that are really good, that really count in life are what father does. Moreover, it is what father does which defines the means with which the boy shall work, the sphere wherein his efforts shall be shaped. In a word, what father does is the beginning as it is the end of the boy's achievements.—Harper's Bazar.

When a woman suffers from depressing weaknesses, she then keenly realizes how helpless—how thoroughly worthless she is. Dr. Shoop has brought relief to thousands of such women. He reaches diseases peculiar to women in two direct, specific ways—a local treatment known by druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Night Cure, and a constitutional or internal prescription called Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Dr. Shoop's Night Cure is applied locally, and at night. It works while you sleep. It reduces inflamation, it stops discharges, it heals, it soothes, it comforts, it cures.

Dr. Shoop's Restorative (tablet or liquid form) is a constitutional, nerve tissue tonic. It brings renewed strength, lasting ambition and vigor to weak, lifeless women.

These two remedies, singly, or used together, have an irresistible, positive helpful power. Try them a month and see. Sold by J. H. Swan.

So Kind of Her.

"Just to think," chuckled the tall suburbanite on the early local, "my wife says she is not going in my vest pockets again for two or three months."

"How nice of her!" commented the short suburbanite. "Now you will be able to find the price of a cigar when you get up in the morning."

"Hardly."

"But she has promised not to go in your vest pockets?"

"Oh, that's because I am not going to wear any vest until fall."

Just Missed It.

An elderly woman who had, during the course of a somewhat eventful life, buried four husbands, encountered at the gates of the cemetery where they reposed an old but timid lover, whom she had not seen for years. She took him inside and showed him—not without a feeling of pride—the well-kept tombstones of her former lords and masters. "Ah, James," she remarked, feelingly, "you might have been lying there to-day if you had only had a little more courage."

I had diabetes in its worst form, writes Marion Lee of Dunreath, Ind., I tried eight physicians pithout relief. Only three bottles of Foley's Kidney Cure made me a well man. Sold by J. H. Swan.

Millions Invested in Cows.

There are said to be about 17,000,000 cows in the United States, representing an investment of $500,000,000, says Farming. The statement is generally accepted that less than two per cent. of these are of pure bred parentage. Who is responsible for the 98 per cent. of poor grade and scrub dairy cows? Think of it, Mr. Farmer, it is up to you to increase the dairy income of this country, and how can you better accomplish it than by starting right with some pure bred black and white stock, with their strong constitutions, staying qualities, all round excellence and superb performances at the pail. Give them a chance to lift the mortgage, then put the surplus in the bank.

Wanted all stomach sufferers to take "Gastrozone" a stomach cure and not a cureall as most medicines claim. Gastrozone does not digest your food but acts directly upon the lining of the stomach making it aseptic and bringing it back to its normal condition so that it will digest its own food. Endorsed by leading physicians for the cure of all stomach disorders. Beware of concoctions of oil of Vitriol Sulphurous acid and water bearing similar names. Weak hearts are due to indigestion Gastrozone works quickly and efficiently. Recommended by and sold only by J. H. Swan.

Trees.

Possibly by reason of some mysterious defect in the national character Americans seem to have little appreciation of the value of trees. The destruction of forests has gone on apace for many years, and even now that the absolute necessity of protecting the remaining tracts is generally recognized, it is only with great difficulty that legislation to this end is secured. Although the establishment of Arbor day has been regarded as an effective means for cultivating the appreciation of trees, there is still nothing like the sentiment there ought to be against their wanton destruction.

A world of truth in a few words; Nearly all other cough cures are constipating, especially those containing opiates. Kennedy's Laxative Honey and Tar moves the the bowels. Contains no opiates. You can get it at J. H. Swan's.

Dangerous Witness.

"It's a strange custom," said the woman, "this wearing of peacock feathers on hats. Peacock feathers are unlucky. It's like beckoning lightning. You catch me wearing them! Besides," here her voice sank to a whisper, "don't you know that every peacock feather has an eye that looks and sees every blessed little single thing you do?"

Many persons in this community are suffering from kidney complaint who could avoid fatal results by using Foley's Kidney Cure. Sold by J. H. Swan.

Buy Hair at Auction?

At any rate, you seem to be getting rid of it on auction-sale principles: "going, going, g-o-n-e!" Stop the auction with Ayer's Hair Vigor. It certainly checks falling hair; no mistake about this. It acts as a regular medicine; makes the scalp healthy. Then you must have healthy hair, for it's nature's way.

Watch Records.

"That man's watch holds the record for this town," the country jeweler said. "It has run for 22 years without stopping. Aside from a little regulating, oiling and cleaning, it has never needed a repair.

"I know lots of men who try to establish records for their watches. I know five men in this litle town whose watches have run day and night for ten years. Give a good watch to a man, and he takes a pride in it. He never forgets to wind it. Soon he is trying to make a record for it.

"The record for continuous running is held, I believe, by a Swiss watch in Geneva that has run for 28 years."

The End of the World of troubles that robbed E. H. Wolfe, of Bear Grove, Ia., of all usefulness, came when he began taking Electric Bitters. He writes; Two years ago kidney trouble caused me great suffering, which I never would have survived had I not taken Electric Bitters. They also cured me of general debility. Sure cure for all stomach, liver and kidney complaints, blood diseases, headach, dizziness and weakness or bodily decline. Price 50c. guaranteed by J. H. Swan.

Honest Man.

"Will you love me when I am old?" asked the kittenish damsel with the corkscrew curls, the false frizzes, the suspiciously bright teeth—and the large bank account.

"Why, I love you now, don't I?" asked the plain, every-day, matter-of-fact, undiplomatic man who was trying to provide for his future.

And oh, brethren! the volceless wynd that drifts across the open Polar sea was a hot wave compared to the atmosphere that surrounded him in a minute.—Judge.

Don't drag along with a dull, billious, heavy feeling. You need a pill. Use DeWitt's Little Early Risers, the famous little pills. Do not sicken or gripe, but results are sure. Sold by J. H. Swan.

Obliging.

"So," said Mr. Goldbons, severely, 'so young man, you want to marry my daughter, eh? What is your salary?"

The young man's answer was meek and respectful.

"Whatever you think I'm worth, sir," he said.

Moon Travels Slowly.

The moon is the sluggard of the solar system, its 2,273 miles an hour in its journeying around the earth comparing badly with the earth's 66,579 miles an hour.

The Dodging Period

of a woman's life is the name often given to "change of life." Your menses come at long intervals, and grow scantier until they stop. The change lasts three or four years, and causes much pain and suffering, which can, however, be cured, by taking

WINE OF CARDUI

Woman's Refuge in Distress

It quickly relieves the pain, nervousness, irritability, miserableness, fainting, dizziness, hot and cold flashes, weakness, tired feeling, etc. Cardui will bring you safely through the "dodging period," and build up your strength for the rest of your life. Try it.

You can get it at all druggists in $1.00 bottles.

"EVERYTHING BUT DEATH I suffered," writes Virginia Robson, of Easton, Md., "until I took Cardui, which cured me so quickly it surprised my doctor, who didn't know I was taking it."

The Cause of Many Sudden Deaths.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because so deceptive. Many sudden deaths are caused by it—heart disease, pneumonia, heart failure or apoplexy are often the result of kidney disease. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance the kidney-poisoned blood will attack the vital organs or the kidneys themselves break down and waste away cell by cell.

Bladder troubles most always result from a derangement of the kidneys and a cure is obtained quickest by a proper treatment of the kidneys. If you are feeling badly you can make no mistake by taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy.

It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases.

Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and sold by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sized bottles. You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful new discovery and a book that tells all about it, both sent free by mail. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co. Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper.

If You Suffer with Rheumatism

Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy Will Bring the Utmost Relief that Medicine Can.

The one remedy which many physicians rely upon to free the system of the Rheumatic Poisons which are the cause of all Rheumatism, Lumbago, Sciatica, Gout, is DR. SHOOP'S RHEUMATIC REMEDY. Dr. Shoop spent twenty years in experimenting before he discovered the combined chemicals which made possible one almost always certain cure for Rheumatism, etc. Not that DR. SHOOP'S RHEUMATIC REMEDY can turn bony joints into flesh again—that is impossible. But it can and will drive from the blood the poisons which caused the pain and swelling. And then that is the end of the pain and swelling—the end of Rheumatism. This remedy never fails where a cure is possible. It is now put up in tablet or liquid form—ask for either. You who have suffered and are suffering today from pains and aches which you know to be Rheumatism; you who experience lameness or twinges of pain in damp weather; you who easily become stiff and lame without apparent cause—just try DR. SHOOP'S RHEUMATIC CURE. It is just the kind of a remedy that accomplishes results. Sold and recommended by

Sour Stomach

No appetite, loss of strength, nervousness, headache, constipation, bad breath, general debility, sour risings, and catarrh of the stomach are all due to indigestion. Kodol cures indigestion. This new discovery represents the natural juices of digestion as they exist in a healthy stomach, combined with the greatest known tonic and reconstructive properties. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure does not only cure indigestion and dyspepsia, but this famous remedy cures all stomach troubles by cleansing, purifying, sweetening and strengthening the mucous membranes lining the stomach.

Mr. S. S. Ball, of Ravenswood, W. Va., says—"I was troubled with sour stomach for twenty years. Kodol cured me and we are now using it in milk for baby."

$100 in Prizes to Ladies who Attend the Lake County Fair at Libertyville, September 4, 5, 6, 7, and who Visit the Hein-Ornstein Co. Exhibit in the Art Hall.

To show our interest in the Lake County Fair and at the same time to enlarge the circle of this store's acquaintance among the ladies of the county, we will make a handsome exhibit in the Art Hall at the coming fair and Will Present Three Ladies with Handsome Prizes, aggregating in value $80, subject to following

CONDITIONS:

You must attend the Lake County Fair and visit our exhibit in the Art Hall. There you will be given a Souvenir with a Coupon attached. Then write this firm a brief letter on the following subject:

"WHY WAUKEGAN AND ITS BUSINESS HOUSES SHOULD TAKE AN ACTIVE INTEREST IN THE LAKE COUNTY FAIRS."

In this letter give the number of your coupon and Make a Guess as to the Number of Sale Checks that will be Received by our Cashier during the Seven Days of our Fall Opening, date of which will be announced in the county papers.

Then You or some Member of your Family must visit this store during one of the seven days of our fall opening sale and hand the numbered coupon which you received at the fair to our cashier, with your name and address plainly written thereon. You need not make a purchase, just visit the store. To the ladies who comply with these instructions and who guess the nearest to the correct number of sale checks which will be received by our cashier during the seven days of the fall opening, will be awarded three handsome prizes.

FIRST PRIZE, $40 SET OF FURS. SECOND PRIZE, $25 SUIT OR COAT. THIRD PRIZE, $25 HAT.

In case of tie guesses the awards will be made on the merits of the respective letters of the ladies who tie, the decision as to the merits of the letters to be left with the editors of the papers in which we advertise.

ADDITIONAL PRIZES.

For the benefit of our friends who find it impossible to attend the fair or visit this store during our fall opening, but who will write the letter and make the guess, as above stated, will be awarded three special prizes.

FIRST PRIZE, ANY $10 JACKET. SECOND PRIZE, ANY $5 SKIRT. THIRD, ANY $3 WAIST.

In case of tie guess, the prizes will be awarded on the merits of the letters, in the same manner as for the three main prizes. Please notice that all ladies who so wish may take part in this last contest and that you do not need the coupon for this, simply write the letter and make your guess.
